

Murder Suspect, Convict Sought In Vancouver

Banks Increase Guards as Crime Wave Heightens; Chief Under Fire

Compiled From CP-BUP Dispatches
VANCOUVER—A dark-haired man was sought by police today for questioning concerning the savage slaying of a former Edmonton printer, also a "very dangerous" escaped convict from Essondale mental hospital, a suspect in two recent holdups.

Search for the wanted man started Monday night after police were told he had been seen recently with 47-year-old Robert D. Hopkins, whose body was found in his home earlier Monday.

The victim's body was found sprawled on the floor of the neat two-room home where he lived alone in suburban South Vancouver. Blood from a bullet wound in the head covered his face and an electric light cord was wrapped tightly about his neck, while his ankles were bound with neckties.

Employees of the Vancouver Herald, where Hopkins worked, told police they had seen a man, described only as dark-haired, with Hopkins on a number of occasions recently. They said he had also borrowed a small sum of money from the slain man.

KILLED FRIDAY

The slaying was discovered by Herald employees who were investigating Hopkins' absence from work for three days. Police said they believed he was murdered Friday.

Meanwhile, May Hopkins, an Edmonton schoolteacher and sister of the dead man, arrived here by air from the Alberta capital Monday night to assist police in their investigations and supervise funeral arrangements.

Police said the motive for the slaying appeared to be robbery. They found no wallet or money on the body and drawers and cupboards were ransacked. But the brutality of the slaying, said officials, indicated there might be an as yet undiscovered motive.

Fellow workers said Hopkins led a quiet life, was friendly and congenial and had no known enemies.

Emergency measures will be taken at all local banks today while police battle the worst

CHURCHILL SORRY SIPHER BOMBS WERE EVER DEVELOPED

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Churchill said today it would have been a good thing if the atom and hydrogen bomb had never been developed, but rejected a Labor member's suggestion that he use his influence to get other powers to quit testing the bombs.

"I don't think it would be within my power to make a decision of that kind," he told the House of Commons.

"I am sure it would have been a very good thing if none of these things had been discovered at all. But at this stage their discovery should be arrested, and with what advantage to which particular nation experimenting in them, is a much more complicated question, to decide."

1,000 CREWMEN PROTEST

Commodore 'Bumps' Mary's Skipper

SOUTHAMPTON, Eng. (AP) — Members of the crew of the liner Queen Mary threatened Monday to go on strike unless their regular captain is permitted to handle the ship on the voyage home from the United States with Queen Mother Elizabeth.

The Cunard Line, which owns the huge vessel, has said that Capt. Ivan Thompson, commodore of its fleet, will take over from Capt. Donald Sorrell, the regular skipper, for that trip next week.

A protest petition signed by about 1,000 of the liner's crew of 1,260 was handed Monday to the management, demanding the command be restored to Sorrell.

Capt. Thompson, 60, normally commands the liner Queen Elizabeth, which carried the Queen Mother to New York Oct. 26. It is customary for the line's commodore to man the bridge on royal voyages in Cunarders.

Stubby (five foot two) soft-spoken Capt. Sorrell, 58, said "I know nothing about it at all" when asked for his comment on the petition. He added: "I'm going on leave tonight."

"Capt. Sorrell is more than a captain," said one crew member. "He is a friend of every member of the crew. He knows all about them and talks to them about their family affairs. He is the best captain we ever had."

Climber Saved From Ledge, Rescuers Start Trek Down

Retain Cabinet Ministers' Seats

HON. GEORGE C. MARLER ALBERT LAVIGNE CLAUDE RICHARDSON

In Tuesday's federal by-elections Liberals won four of the six seats. Transport Minister Marler, had no trouble getting elected in the Montreal riding of St. Antoine-Westmount, a seat held by former finance minister Douglas C. Abbott. Lavigne, deputy reeve of Cornwall township, won a close election in Stormont, Ont., to take the seat formally held by Lionel Chevrier who resigned as transport minister to become head of the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority. Richardson, an insurance man, won election in St. Lawrence-St. George, which elected former defense minister Brooke Claxton for several years until he resigned to become an insurance company executive. Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent said in one of the tersest statements in his political career that the Liberal victories "were very satisfactory." He added that the result in York West, where a Conservative retained the traditionally Tory seat "was hardly surprising." He did not comment on the outcome in Selkirk, Manitoba, where veteran CCF candidate William Bryce recaptured the seat he had held for 10 years but lost in 1952. (See Page 2 for roundup.)

Employment Outlook Not Bad Says PM

St. Laurent Disagrees With TLC Delegation Over Prospects for Coming Winter

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent said today the government does not think this winter's unemployment will reach last season's post-war high.

He told a Trades and Labor Congress of Canada delegation he disagrees with a TLC prediction of higher unemployment, adding that "there are indications that make us feel it will not be realized."

The TLC's suggestion of increasing unemployment was made in its annual brief to the government, presented today to about a dozen ministers, in which it proposed a five-point program.

"We are as concerned as you are about unemployment," Mr. St. Laurent replied, "but I don't think we agree with your expectation that it is apt to be more severe than last year."

Declaring there is a prospect this winter's unemployment will be well above the postwar record figures of last winter, the TLC said its concern has become sharper since it was indicated recently that Parliament will not convene until after Christmas.

SETS DOWN PROGRESS

Its submission, presented for the first time by newly-elected President Claude Jodoin of Montreal, called for these measures to hold down unemployment:

1. Enactment of "anti-dumping" legislation to "stop the importation of goods which are ordinarily produced in Canada."
2. A program of public works to include projects "planned for the purpose of producing em-

Sunday, the Citizen received a letter with a similar signature threatening the life of Mayor Charlotte Whitton if she enters the mayoralty race again.

Fighter Planes May Convoy U.S. Aircraft

Staff Chiefs Study Question—Dulles

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. is considering giving fighter escorts to American aircraft which fly near Communist territory, State Secretary Dulles disclosed today.

Dulles told a press conference the question is being studied by the joint chiefs of staff.

He noted that the pilot of the RB-29 photographic plane shot down by Soviet fighters over Japanese waters Sunday had authority to shoot back, but did not do so.

Dulles said this was one of those hairline decisions on which people might make different judgment afterwards. That was the case also with Ambassador Charles Bohlen and his decision to attend a Soviet party in Moscow Sunday night following the plane incident, Dulles said.

The ambassador's attendance at the party had been criticized by Senators William Knowland (Rep., Calif.) and Senator Bridges (Rep., N.H.) just before Dulles' meeting with newspapermen.

Dulles also declared Russia's claim that the RB-29 fired first is a falsehood. The significant thing, he added, is that the Soviet government felt it necessary to justify the shooting down of the plane.

Waves of Aircraft

HONG KONG (Reuters) — The Communist New China news agency claimed today that "six waves of American military aircraft, in 50 sorties, intruded over the coastal areas of Chekiang Province Monday and the day before to carry out armed provocations."

Injured Victorian 40 Hours on Mountain

Seriously injured Victoria climber, Charles E. Faulkner, Jr., was removed by rescue workers early today from a rock ledge on the high, windswept slopes of Mount Arrowsmith.

It is expected he will be brought out to hospital by tonight, but much will depend on weather conditions which are hampering the speed of the rescue work.

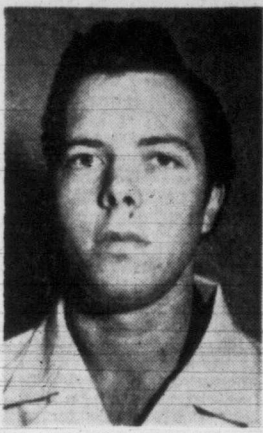

An exhausted rescue party is slowly bringing the 22-year-old mountaineer down the treacherous, icy, mountain slope to a "base camp" where he can receive medical treatment.

Faulkner is reported to be in severe pain from a compound fracture of the right leg and suffering from exposure. He spent more than 40 hours alone on a narrow ledge, exposed to bitter cold, wind and rain.

RCMP officers said Faulkner may be flown out from the base camp by helicopter if weather conditions at the mountain improved before the end of the day.

Foul weather prevented a helicopter from taking off to the accident scene Monday.

The base camp where Faulk-

BRIAN SAUNDERS ... hurt man's companion

ner is being transported is near the scene of a recent RCAF crash in which four men died.

Injured Man Numb With Cold

Early this morning, rescue workers, using ropes, managed to reach the helpless climber lying since Sunday afternoon on a narrow ledge overlooking a 250-foot precipice. He was numb with cold and could speak only faintly.

Rescuers hauled Faulkner up to a ridge with great difficulty. He was tied to a stretcher and the rescue party began its descent to base camp where medical aid was waiting.

Radio reports from base camp said the descent of the rescue party was slow due to the mountain slope being covered with slippery snow and ice. In some places it covered loose rock, easily dislodged.

A slip could have meant death to the members of the party hundreds of feet below in a rocky chasm. The cold winds also hampered the party in its efforts.

A rescue attempt Monday failed due to foggy weather and lack of adequate equipment.

Today's rescue was accomplished by having teams of volunteers bring food and equipment to the base camp to equip the rescue party. The volunteers include men from Alberni as well as RCAF personnel.

The RCMP is in charge of the operation.

Like Nightmare, Says Saunders

The accident occurred Sunday afternoon. Faulkner, accompanied by Brian Saunders of Metehosin; Carl Borge, 23, of Brentwood, and Borge's younger brother, John, began ascending the mountain early Sunday morning.

The Borge brothers decided to return home when they neared the summit of the mountain because they were improperly shod and lacked necessary equipment to make the last leg to the peak.

But Faulkner and Saunders decided they would make the attempt up the steep icy slope which was partly covered with snow.

Saunders described the last climb as slow and dangerous. "I saw Faulkner working himself around a narrow ledge which was apparently covered with ice," said Saunders. "Then he slipped and fell 20 feet below on a snow slope."

"I heard him yell 'I've broken my leg.' He began to slide slowly towards the edge of a 250-foot precipice. I thought he was going over for sure. It was like a nightmare. He was within about a foot of the edge when he stopped."

Saunders believes it was Faulkner's broken leg which saved him. It was bent underneath him and caused enough friction on the snow to stop him from sliding further onto the rocks below.

Saunders was unable to remove the injured man so tied him with a piece of nylon rope to the ledge and made him as comfortable as possible. He then left to get aid.

Saunders got lost on the way down the mountain. He slipped twice and narrowly escaped serious injuries. He was completely exhausted when he informed RCMP headquarters at Alberni of the accident. His two other companions, the Borge brothers, were unaware of the accident when they reached the foot of the mountain.

Ulf Bitterlich, a veteran mountaineer, and Leo Lynn, 16, of Alberni, were the first to set out to see if they could help the injured climber.

Lynn got a few feet from Faulkner when he was struck on the head by a rock rolling down from above. Despite the serious cut, Lynn and Bitterlich stayed with the climber through the night, and did what they could to comfort him.

The two men in the morning started down the mountain to get more help. However, rescue parties were already on their way. The first team was composed of 18 men, including six RCAF men from Comox.

But the rescue team was unable to do much for the climber as they lacked sufficient rope. Rain made the mountain slope extremely slippery.

Other rescue teams followed, which included a group consisting of Joe Lynn, Leo's father, who had learned that his son was injured by a rock, and Mrs. Lila Rousseau, widow of the Port Alberni mountaineer, Ralph Rousseau, killed in a climbing accident last July. They took equipment to the base camp.

Another party left this morning with Dr. N. H. Johns, of Alberni, with further equipment and food for the rescuers.

France Sends Warships to Aid Natives

SAIGON, Indo-China (UP) — France ordered seven warships to northern Indo-China today to rescue thousands of Roman Catholic natives reported fleeing from Communist persecution.

Board Cuts Railroad Rates For Cars Shipped to West

OTTAWA (CP)—The board of transport commissioners has approved a series of agreed charges cutting rail rates on General Motors, Studebaker and Morris automobiles going from Ontario plants to western Canada.

A board order made public today said the reduced rates will be retroactive to last May 7.

The agreed charges—contract rates between the two transcontinental railways and the auto manufacturers—reduce rates by an average 30 cents per 100 pounds on vehicles going to the Lakehead and beyond.

As an example, the freight charge on a 3,000-pound car going from Windsor to Calgary would drop to $193 from $202.

The board order made public today will have no effect on car prices here, as the reduced rates have already been in operation for some time. R. B. Wilson, president, Victoria Automobile Dealers' Association said today.

'Sheppards Were Talking of Divorce'

Last Woman to See Slain Woman Alive Tells
Court of Marital State of Doctor and Wife

By H. D. QUINN
CLEVELAND, O. (UP)—A close friend of slain Marilyn Sheppard testified today that Mrs. Sheppard had told her that Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard, her husband, had given a watch to "a young lady in California" and had been thinking of a divorce.

Mrs. Nancy Ahern, one of the last persons to see Mrs. Sheppard alive, testified in Dr. Sheppard's murder trial as a state witness that Mrs. Sheppard gave her the information in April. The witness said she did not know Mrs. Sheppard until she learned of it in a talk with Mrs. Sheppard, 31, who had been a high school sweetheart of Sheppard's. Some time in April, in the Sheppard home, Mrs. Sheppard had given her the news.

That was after a trip to the Sheppards made to California, she said. Miss Hayes has admitted that she and Sheppard spent a week together last March while Mrs. Sheppard was visiting in the ranch home of Dr. and Mrs. Randall Chapman in Monterey, Cal.

It was in Los Angeles that Dr. Sheppard spent the week with Miss Hayes in the home of another friend, Dr. Henry Miller, Miss Hayes said in a statement.

Mrs. Ahern continued: "Mrs. Sheppard said that on the trip to the ranch, Dr. Chapman and Dr. Sheppard discussed it (a divorce) and Dr. Chapman convinced Dr. Sheppard that he and Marilyn were right for each other and that they should try again."

OBJECTION OVERRULED
Common Pleas Judge Edward Blythin overruled the objection, saying: "It doesn't quite come within the hearsay category."

Assistant Prosecutor Thomas J. Parrino told the court he was bringing out the divorce talk to oppose the statement of the defense that "the last four or five months of Sam and Marilyn Sheppard's married life were the happiest."

Mrs. Ahern, a pretty, slightly plumpish housewife who was a neighbor of the Sheppards, was the third witness called by the state in its attempt to send Dr. Sheppard to the electric chair. "During the time you knew Marilyn Sheppard, especially during the last four or five

Liberals Lose One Retain Four Seats In By-Elections

Vote Light, Pluralities Reduced;
CCF Takes Riding in Manitoba

OTTAWA (CP)—Liberals lost one Commons seat in Manitoba to a veteran CCF member and came close to losing their former eastern Ontario stronghold of Stormont to a Progressive Conservative in Monday's six federal by-elections.

William Scotty Bryce, 66-year-old Manitoba farmer, will rejoin CCF ranks in the Commons after a 17-month absence with his victory in Selkirk riding which he represented from 1943-53. He was defeated in the 1953 general election by R. J. Wood, Liberal member who died last summer.

The closest contest was in Stormont, a Liberal seat since 1935. Albert Lavigne, 46-year-old deputy reeve of Cornwall township, held it for the party by a scant 357 votes over Donald Dick, 55, Progressive Conservative candidate.

Minister Given Decided Margin

In the other four contests Liberals held three city ridings in Montreal and Toronto, electing Transport Minister Marler in Montreal St. Antoine-Westmount, and Progressive Conservatives retained York West, a Toronto suburb.

Except for Mr. Marler, the winning Liberals were elected with pluralities sharply reduced from last year's results although the total vote was lighter. The other Liberals elected were Donald Carrick, 48, in Toronto Trinity, and Claude Richardson, 54, in Montreal St. Lawrence-St. George.

In York West, John B. Hamill, 41, won in a four-way fight with a larger lead than was given last year to Rodney Adamson, PC member killed in a plane crash April 8 at Moose Jaw.

Results left the party standing in the 265-seat Commons: Liberals, 172; Progressive Conservatives, 51; CCF, 24; Social Credit, 15; Independents, 3.

Eight Candidates Lose Deposits

Eight of the 21 candidates lost their $200 deposits for not polling half of the winner's total. Four Labor-Progressive Communist candidates met that fate, together with two CCF candidates in St. Lawrence-St. George and York West, the Progressive Conservative candidate in Selkirk and one Independent, Mr. Bruce, who lost Selkirk to the Liberal candidate last year by only 189 votes, had a substantial lead when vote counting ended Monday night. With 96 of 124 polls counted, the Scottish-born CCFer had 7,809 votes to 5,271 for Liberal John Shan-ski, 45-year-old lumber merchant, and 2,305 for David Veitch, Progressive Conservative, 46, a general merchant.

At that point the total vote was heavier than last year's 14,273 votes cast.

Good Records Keep Navymen Out of Jail

Clean service records saved George D. McLellan, 19, and Robert Ritchie, same age, from jail Monday when they pleaded guilty in Esquimalt court to attempting to steal gas.

The youths, both of HMCS Naden, had been caught by police with siphon and gas can in hand in a lockyard parking lot a week ago.

Their divisional officer told the court that in 18 months' service the pair had earned character assessments of "very good."

Magistrate H. C. Hall said that in view of their good record and their ages he would order a fine, $50 each or ten days.

LIBERALS AT LOW EBB SAYS BENNETT

SASKATOON (CP)—Premier Bennett of British Columbia said Monday night the Liberal party in Canada is at its weakest point since Confederation.

"It is only a shell of its once-great power," he told a meeting on the eve of the Saskatchewan provincial Social Credit conference here. "The present St. Laurent government is dragging its feet in the face of great national problems."

Mr. Bennett said there never has been greater unity in the Social Credit party than now "and Canada needs unity more now than at any other period in her history."

National president Ernest Hansell said the party's national executive met Monday "laying plans" for a Social Credit government for Canada in 1957.

Cominco Refused Power Export Permit

International Joint Commission Will Review Department Decision

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA—Consolidated Mining and Smelting has been refused a permit to export surplus power to the United States from its power development in British Columbia, pending the outcome of a study now being made on the water and power potential of the Columbia River basin.

Trade and commerce department received the application from the company in September. After giving the matter some study it was decided that in view of the fact that the federal government has instructed the International Joint Commission to make a complete study of the Columbia River water and power potential, no commitment should be made at this stage allowing the export of power from that area.

SUBJECT TO REVIEW

The application will of course be subject to review in the light of findings of the International Joint Commission, it was pointed out by trade and commerce department authorities.

Generally speaking, the federal government's policy has been to permit the export of surplus power as opposed to "firm" power.

Surplus power is regarded as surplus to Canadian requirements, whereas "firm" power is power produced by a plant erected for the sole purpose of producing power for export.

Departmental authorities admitted that in refusing the permit to Consolidated to export surplus power they were not acting in accordance with the policy generally followed in the past. However the fact that

RCMP Capture Three More Douk Children

CLAYBRICK, B.C. (UP)—Three more Doukhobor children were taken from their homes here by police and social workers and put in school in New Denver, B.C.

They joined 29 other Freedomite children captured recently in a crackdown on children not going to school. The latest abductees, two girls and a boy, were taken from this small Sons of Freedom community while the women of the village stood by and chattered in Russian, offering no physical resistance.

Police said they believe there are seven or eight more children hidden in the community.

Some members of the religious sect have taken to hiding their children in barns and out-houses to avoid having to send them to school.

MARTIN WANTS RUSSIANS IN A-PLAN GROUP

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—Canada today invited Russia, India and Brazil to become members of an advisory committee proposed in a resolution to establish President Eisenhower's atoms-for-peace pool.

The other members of the UN committee would be the United States, Britain, France and Canada.

In making the suggestion, Canada's Paul Martin said he was acting on behalf of seven countries which sponsored the resolution, now before the assembly's political committee.

Martin said the suggestion was not being submitted as a formal proposal at this time, nor was an immediate revision of the resolution contemplated.

The seven countries—Canada, the U.S., Britain, France, Australia, South Africa and Belgium—decided only Monday night to seek the participation of the other three countries.

Martin added that the seven agree that if Russia, Brazil and India decide to participate, this would complete the seven-power resolution.

Mendes-France Wins Confidence Vote

PARIS (AP)—Premier Pierre Mendes-France won a vote of confidence from the French National Assembly today.

An unofficial count gave him 303 votes to 220, the narrowest margin he has had in nearly five months in office.

The vote was on a question of procedure—should the assembly take up the detail of the communications ministry budget for 1955, or send it back for changes. The decision was to begin discussion tonight.

Budget discussions are traditionally difficult in France.

IMPORTANT CHANGE

FREE OGILVIE PLAY MONEY
NOW REQUIRED BY LAW

To avoid any possible violation of federal and provincial laws, we have been obliged to make a change in our original method of enclosing free Ogilvie Play Money bills with packaged Ogilvie products.

Starting immediately, the Play Money denominations will be standardized according to the kind of product and the size of package.

In other words, when the packages now being prepared at Ogilvie mills reach your dealers' shelves, all uncertainty will be eliminated. Instead of containing Play Money bills of assorted denominations ranging from $100 up to $100,000, each package of a specific product and size will contain a bill of the same denomination. The denominations will vary in different products and package sizes only—and will range from $1,000, in the smallest sizes, up to as much as $10,000 in the largest sizes. The smallest and largest play money bills previously issued will be discontinued.

Thus you can plan ahead. You can select the prize you want in the big Ogilvie Free Play Money offer—and plan just how to win it. No luck is needed!

ALL OGILVIE PLAY MONEY IN CIRCULATION IS GOOD!

Stocks already on hand in retail stores will for some time contain Play Money ranging from $100 to $100,000—and, remember, all of this is still good!

There is no other change in rules or operation of the prize offer. All of the Ogilvie Play Money you have saved—in all denominations—will count toward your prize, so long as at least half of each million dollars you collect is the BLUE Ogilvie Play Money. The balance, up to $500,000, may be made up of old-type Play Money left over from the earlier bicycle offer.

Who Owns Our Timber?

WHEN THE LEGISLATURE passed the present forest law it expected a large number of private companies to protect the timber resources and public domain of British Columbia. It did not expect these companies to secure vast stretches of timber under forest management licenses and then to sell them, at large profits, to some other interests. Least of all did it expect this new system to result in the transfer of public timber, in gigantic blocks, to foreign owners.

Yet that has happened to an alarming extent. One of the great private timber empires of the province, having secured a large cutting circle from the Government, has sold it to an American corporation. There is nothing illegal about this and nothing to prevent others doing the same thing. There is nothing, indeed, to prevent a few men eventually controlling most of our timber lands through interlocking corporate arrangements, visible or invisible to the public.

These dangers cannot be blamed on the Bennett Government. They were inherent in the system established by its predecessor. The former Government in its later years made some effort to prevent the abuse of cutting circles by forbidding their sale within ten years of their issuance, but the protection thus afforded is too brief to be worth much.

When Mr. Sommers says there is no danger of any monopoly in our timber industry because that would be a violation of the federal Combines Act he brushes off this problem much too lightly. The Combines Act does not forbid such agglomerations of capital; unlike American law, it forbids only monopolies that actually restrain trade, an offense extremely difficult to prove.

In any case, most British Columbians would be opposed to the consolidation of the timber industry in a few big companies even if they did not operate as an illegal combine. For such a concentration of economic and, inevitably political, power through the control of our primary resources, would obviously be dangerous.

So far as American interests are concerned, British Columbia, like all parts of Canada, should generally welcome foreign capital used to develop our resources, since only the net profits leave the country while the investments and the jobs remain here. The case of our forest management licenses, however, is very different from most kinds of investment.

Here the foreigner is not merely establishing an industry; he is securing in perpetuity a huge chunk of the public's capital. As British Columbia must live mainly on this capital, and as most of forests apparently are to be parceled out in cutting licenses, Americans could soon acquire, through the purchase of stock, effective control of the provincial economy and manipulate it largely to suit their interests in the United States, which may not be in our interest.

On the other hand, the advantages of the management license are obvious. They assure a perpetual crop of timber in specified areas, prevent over-cutting and compel the license holder to conserve the forest. How these results are to be assured without exposing our forests to the control of a few industrial giants, perhaps foreign, is far from clear.

In proposing this system Chief Justice Sloan suggested that, after ten years of experience with it, the Government should appoint another commission of inquiry to see how its reforms were working. The ten years are almost up now, the virtues of the system in the conservation of timber are apparent, and so are the dangers.

The Government would be wise to launch a new study without delay and find out precisely where it and the public stand in the management of our most valuable assets. And possibly the experience of recent years will suggest a remedy for the risks they have produced.

Such a study might be conducted by a special non-partisan committee of the legislature working during and between sessions. Or if another royal commission is appointed it should be composed of several men, each with special qualifications, since one man's opinion on a matter so complex and so vital to all future generations of British Columbia is not enough. We are concerned in this matter with nothing less than our bread and butter.

Seeing Ourselves as a Province

IN HIS RECENT PRESIDENT'S report to the annual meeting of the B.C. Chamber of Commerce, Mr. E. W. Arnott detailed numerous developments in the province during recent years.

Probably not the least of these—and to it he attributed the ability of Chambers of Commerce to form the British Columbia body in 1951—was the achievement of a "provincial outlook."

In Mr. Arnott's opinion this is a product of the postwar years. It stems in large measure, he feels, from the industrial expansion that has occurred since the end of hostilities. Isolated settlements have been drawn closer together. They understand the surging growth of the province and its utilization of resources once considered too remote for commercial exploitation.

Here is an economic basis on which to raise a theory of the development of a provincial outlook. Yet it is not the only one.

In part, this recognition by British Columbians of their provincial community of interests rests on improved communications. More roads and more cars are helping more B.C. people to see their own country. They are able to journey out of their own communities to those of distant settlements, formerly seen only as flickering lights from a train window—and often lamp lights at that.

The provincial outlook has been expanded, too, by the experience of men and women in the services who met strangers not only from other parts of the world and other parts of Canada, but also from other parts of B.C.

Adding greatly to the creation of this outlook has been a swelling pride in British Columbia beyond the limits of the individual's own home. News columns have described the engineering and other feats which have opened little known territories to the public. Small centres have won new importance as major industrial sites.

Old rivalries have been submerged in the congratulations from one territory to another, from one city to its neighbor, near or far, on particular attainments.

And of more than passing significance in the provincial consciousness has been the spectacular and satisfying manner in which Vancouver, with assistance from other areas, conducted the Empire Games. Through the event came a shared B.C. pride in accomplishment.

In rapid march, once remote areas have moved out of the isolation of the backwoods to become acceptable and active influences in the British Columbia community. Doors have been opened to provide fresh views on the province. The vistas are inspiring. The provincial outlook, broad enough to recognize its part in the Canadian and international outlook, is expanding.

'Crack Down' on Narcotic Addicts

VANCOUVER POLICE AUTHORITIES have intensified their drive against narcotics users and distributors in that city's underworld.

A special "flying squad" has been instructed by the chief to "crack down" on addicts wherever they are found. This, according to report, is an outgrowth of the current Vancouver crime wave. Violent crime there is attributed to the narcotics traffic and the desperation with which criminal addicts are attempting to raise money to purchase short supplies of drugs.

The campaign being waged by Vancouver to bring to book addicts and narcotics traffickers is important beyond the direct influence it will have on these people. It constitutes a concerted attack on a widely-recognized evil by what appears to be conventional police methods.

As such it becomes a test of those methods. Heretofore they have failed to get to the roots of the narcotics traffic. Perhaps this effort will be more successful. It is to be hoped that it will.

On the other hand, should it be unsuccessful, then some other means of curbing the narcotics trade—or at least curbing the lawlessness it creates—ought to be devised.

Other countries appear to have overcome the worst features of the drug traffic by taking the profit out of it. This has been accomplished by providing doses through prescription to addicts, thereby making it unnecessary for them to commit crimes—including peddling—to finance their own personal supplies.

The Voice of Ignorance

IN the nation-wide and shaking argument about our education system I have taken no part, simply because I know nothing of education. This may seem an odd reason for silence, and is not generally shared, but it must serve. However, I do observe that the most passionate controversialists on the subject of education revere their subject too much to touch it themselves. They want education only for others; and human generosity can go no further. They want everybody else educated, especially the defenseless young, so long as they are left alone to enjoy the blessings of ignorance.

Of course I enjoy them also and would not begrudge them to anybody, but I cannot refrain from observing that many of the people who are now giving expert opinions on education could learn something about it, free of charge, and would then have the advantage of knowing what they are talking about. This, I suppose, is asking too much.

The most popular body of thought seems to hold that the schools are the only, or the main source of education. The most ignorant man can see that this is not so. The schools, even the universities, can teach the young very little, except the ability to learn. Knowledge comes later, if it comes at all, which is by no means certain.

MOST of our earlier assumptions about education—or so it appears to one who has none—were far too optimistic. Thus at the time of the American Revolution Thomas Jefferson, one of the best educated men in modern times, remarked that "the light which has been shed on mankind by the art of printing has eminently changed the condition of the world." As yet, that light has dawned on the middle classes only of the men in Europe. The kings and rabbles of equal ignorance, have not yet received its rays; but it continues to spread and, while printing is preserved, can no more recede than the sun return on its course.

Men like Jefferson supposed that if cheap books were opened to the people they would read and educate themselves. Such men could hardly imagine that, nearly two centuries later, the majority of North Americans would seldom read a book from one year's end to the other, except perhaps a comic book or a detective story, even though all books are offered free in countless public libraries.

THE fact seems to be that we restrict our notion of education to so much to the schools that once a man is safely out of them and into the world he supposes the educational process to be complete, whereas it is only beginning. And if you took a poll among the laymen who are presently convulsing Canada with their views on the school system how many could answer honestly that they read a single book this week? Not many, I judge, by the sale of books and the records of the libraries.

Yet few men, however brilliant at school, ever amounted to anything in the world of thought or even of action unless they were readers. For example, I happened to be looking over last night, the huge and daunting lists of books bought by the Duke of Wellington and Napoleon Bonaparte in the same year, when they were starting out on their first long military campaigns. Neither of them had learned much at school. Nor did Winston Churchill, nor Abraham Lincoln and many others one could mention. But by middle age they were magnificently educated, partly by observing, mostly by reading.

It is one of the few hopeful and surely one of the most incredible facts of our time that all knowledge is free, all the accumulated wisdom of the ages offered to anyone willing to accept it. Librarians and teachers almost plead with the public to accept this priceless treasure. Most of it can find few readers among those who are too busy telling the teachers, how to instruct the young.

Whether our school system is good or bad I have no means of knowing, though I am constantly appalled at the apparent ignorance of the graduates, which almost equals the ignorance of most school critics.

I am shocked also to find out how much more the young men and women coming here from Britain and Europe seem to know. The experts tell me, however, that our children learn much more than the British and Europeans about life and this may be true. I leave that to the educated, an extremely small group with whom I have never come into contact and never expect to meet.

THE point which I am urging, as an ignorant man, is much simpler and humbler—that in relation to our contemporary problems we are the most ignorant generation of modern times—of which the state of the world is the accurate mirror; that this is quite unnecessary; and that if grown men and women spent as much time educating themselves, without cost and with a lot of fun, as they spend in discussing education we would soon revolutionize society.

The truth seems to be that we want our children, not ourselves, crammed with learning. Above all, we don't want them to be like us. This surely is a sound ambition. Nay, one could safely go further and say that if our children were in danger of being like us we should mercifully extinguish them without more delay.

Somehow I don't think they will be like us. As I observe them, they are much better at their age than we were on average. The weakness in our society, I suspect, is not the child but the man who is indeed the problem child, especially if he has strong views on education.

Man in the Background

BY JOSEPH and STEWART

ODDLY enough, although the election has certainly been a political net plus for President Eisenhower, it has probably also been a net plus for his old rival, Adlai Stevenson.

This, at least, is the majority view among Stevenson's fellow Democrats. If you look at the election results from a special, Stevensonian angle of vision, you can see why. The elections did not go nearly as well for the Democrats as they had expected. But they went surprisingly well for Stevenson nonetheless.

In the first place, Sen. Paul Douglas, from Stevenson's home state of Illinois, was re-elected by a healthy majority. It is no secret that the relationship between the two men has not always been exactly chummy. But this year, things were patched up, and Douglas and Stevenson did a Damon and Pythias act on the Illinois hustings. Stevenson went all out for Douglas, and Douglas, in introducing him, stopped just short of calling Stevenson "your next President."

BET PAID OFF Eisenhower gave Douglas' opponent, Joe Meek, his blessing. If the amiable but unimpressive Meek had beaten Douglas, this would have been interpreted universally as final proof that Stevenson was no match for Eisenhower. But instead, Stevenson's bet on Douglas paid off handsomely.

What is more, where the Democratic performance almost lived up to Democratic hopes—in the governorship races—Stevenson did particularly well. The majority of the new Democratic governors, if not all-out Stevenson men, are at the very least decidedly Stevenson-minded.

This is particularly true of Muskie in Maine, Freeman in Minnesota, Leader in Pennsylvania, Ribicoff in Connecticut, and last but not least, Harriman in New York. Harriman's victory gives him a ballot claim in 1956. But almost his first words after being elected were, "I'm for Stevenson."

Add that ex-President Truman, on the day after the election, for the first time came out flatly for Stevenson in 1956. A row between Truman and Stevenson, who have had their differences in the past, has been the great white hope of the large but ill-organized anti-Stevenson underground in the Democratic party.

HOPED FOR ROW It was hoped, for example, that such a row might start over the chairmanship of the Democratic National Committee, the key party post soon to be vacated by Stevenson's man, Stephen Mitchell. The candidate of the southerners and conservatives in the anti-Stevenson underground was Sen. Earle Clements of Kentucky.

But now Gov. Allan Shivers of Texas, anathema to regular Democrats because of his apostasy in 1952, has bestowed what is probably the kiss of death on Clements by coming out strong for him. There appears to be a good chance that a compromise choice will be found in James Finnegan, an able Democratic politician from Philadelphia, who is believed acceptable to both the Truman and Stevenson forces. Thus, there appears very little likelihood of a Truman-Stevenson row.

What, then, short of his falling down

ALSO, From Washington

an empty elevator shaft, can beat Stevenson? The answer appears to be, "Stevenson."

According to friends, Stevenson is thoroughly fed up with politics. He is tired of the "whiskey-and-mustard routine." He is tired of making speeches. He is tired, particularly, of making the kind of speeches he has been making this autumn.

Stevenson felt an obligation to help pay off the debt acquired by the Democratic party in his campaign. So he has been making speeches to people willing to pay large sums to eat dry chicken and hear him talk. These people were party stalwarts, with no taste for the high level political dissertation in which Stevenson excels. They wanted "give 'em hell" speeches. Accordingly, Stevenson gave 'em hell, but he does not take to it naturally, and he disliked every minute of it.

He disliked even more the almost universal assumption this autumn that he was an active candidate for the 1956 nomination. And he is now telling friends that, far from being an active candidate, he is through with politics—at least for a year.

There are those who believe that such aloofness could destroy Stevenson politically. "If Adlai tries to play coy again, he's through." There are those who believe that taking himself out of the limelight is very smart politics. Stevenson is cleverly protecting himself against the dangers of being too far out in front too soon. Finally, there are those who believe that Stevenson is simply and quite genuinely a tired man, puzzled about his future. And this last theory, naive though it may seem, may be the right one after all.

THE GREAT CONSPIRACY

As Lucy's portrait of Creedy grew, it carried the unmistakable mark of the quiet, deceitful, self-contained fanatic, setting himself apart with conscious insolence from the common run of blundering humanity by its own sense of superiority. The modern conspirator in the West is the scientist or technician, educated in one narrow sphere far above his intellectual station in life, and thus, inevitably, coming to regard the non-specialist mind with the sort of resentful contempt of the have-not who believes that he is a superior being to the haves.

Creedy, as he gradually emerged from Lucy's description, would have fitted exactly into this all too common pattern; and the fact that he, with his highly trained mind, was only an acting captain condemned to serve under generals who, by his own cock-eyed standards, had no brains at all, would have accounted for everything about him. At the same time I knew very well that it was just this type of mind which turned the science of the pseudo-logic and secret power of Marxism.

NO MONOPOLY ON BIBLE

I am not a Social Creditor or member of any political party but your lead editorial of Wednesday, Oct. 27, 1954, in which the premier of B.C. is attacked for introducing religion into politics is on the order of straining at a gnat and swallowing a camel, or that lotteries don't exist in Canada because they're illegal, when obviously they do. Both lotteries and camels can cause indignation.

Religion has been in politics in Canada and elsewhere long before Social Credit or Mr. Bennett appeared upon the scene. Read Hansard or the Congressional Record. In various provinces private sectarian authoritarian parochial schools financed in whole or in part out of the public treasury? If this isn't sectarian politics for partisan purpose, what is it?

The separation of church and state is maintained in any modern progressive state as opposed to such backward states as Spain and Italy.

The Bible is common property, including any quotations, not the personal preserve of any sect or creed. Any person can quote any authoritative text, as any factual, scientific, historic or geographic text is. One group is not the sole interpreter of the Bible or the only one that is right. It is of the spirit and not of this earth so far, only the illiterate and uneducated permit one group to monopolize it. Those who think they are the only ones should carefully consider the renunciation of their beliefs, for they are so bound in their freedom.

Your editorial falls in the same class—gag rules or censorship, of which you accuse Social Credit. Is any one who quotes the Bible to be called blasphemous for bringing it down to earth? Let the people decide where the shoe fits.

Season of Duck Talk

FOR 15 or 20 seconds each night I suffer from insomnia. From the time I pile into bed until I've kicked the sheet out at the foot and twisted the covers around, I just toss and turn. After that I'm virtually unconscious until the alarm goes off.

But in that 15 or 20 seconds these dark November nights, voices come to trouble me. There's nothing supernatural about them, nor are they the murmurings of conscience, though maybe they should be.

They're merely the cantankerous squawking of ducks that roost on a log anchored off the bottom of our lot.

The sound comes riding in through the open window, brassy chunks of water-fowl conversation that almost clank. Briefly I speculate on the meaning of their jarring accents. Maybe one duck gets nudged off the log by the movements of its neighbor's troubled sleep. Maybe ducks have nightmares, too, and protest loudly against them. Whatever the cause of the outbursts, whatever their subject matter, they sound ruffled and angry. And to my ears, they don't make sense.

A LITTLE TOO HUMAN

It seems, though, that this duck talk has a lot in common with much of the verbal expression of mankind these days. You don't have to listen to ducks to hear the notes of anger, objection, and irascibility in this year of brabble. More people appear to find fault with more things—and find fault in tones of irritability—than I remember from my youth. And the fault-finders seem to get madder and madder if you don't agree with them, or even when you do agree, if you don't provide a solution for the problem.

Heaven help you if you suggest even mildly that the complainers try to find out the other side of the story. Why should they try to find out? Who are you to suggest there is another side? If there is an explanation, why haven't you got it tailor-made to their requirements? That means why haven't you an explanation proving they're right and that the other side just hasn't got around to meeting their objections yet. But mostly the brabbling isn't that coherent. It's just duck talk.

Perhaps the attitude oppresses me, at this time because now is the season when the ducks come into the bay. These are the nights on which I hear them squabbling on their roost. And these are the days, too, when I hear so much complaint over municipal politicians and what people ought to do about them when the elections roll around in a few more weeks.

Now I couldn't agree more with some of the complaints. While I don't agree that by the alchemy of achieving public office a sane, decent and reasonable man is automatically transmuted into a moron, I do think some people get into office who shouldn't be there. I do think, too, that some apparently decent people don't show up so well when they have to make public decisions. And I also believe that there's something ludicrously uncomfortable in the position of those who straddle the fence rather than stand on one side or the other.

IT DOESN'T HELP

At the same time, I don't know that the duck-talk of complainers does much to improve the standard of municipal government. Nor does the duck-talk of the candidates, some of whom can out-duck-talk any duck I've heard through my bedroom window.

It seems to me that the public, the candidates and the incumbents ought to fight shy of this kind of garrulous squabbling. They ought to see issues a little more clearly. They ought to be more coherent in both thought and expression. I'm hoping some of them will be between now and the first week of December. Certainly some of them have the ability to conceive ideas and express them better than water-fowl. If they do, I think they have a good chance of impressing the voters and cutting down the volume of squawking from that source.

This could be the year in which they adopt the improved technique—this year and next. But maybe the he is too optimistic. After all, I don't expect to hear the song of the farish drifting in through my window from the log roost in the bay these November nights.

U.K. Turbo-Prop Viscounts Grounded, Cleared on Check

LONDON (Reuters)—British European Airways' technicians who worked throughout the night, today "cleared" eight of the corporation's 21 new turbo-prop Viscount airliners. They were withdrawn on Sunday for a detailed engine check.

The planes left London airport on normal schedules. Examination of the corporation's fleet of Viscounts was ordered after trouble was found in one engine component.

A spokesman stressed Sunday that there was no connection between their temporary withdrawal and a recent Viscount crash on a test flight in Australia.

LONDON LETTER

By WALLACE REYBURN

TV Would Woo Winnie

LONDON—Canadians who have reason to remember that disastrous battle in the mud of the First World War—Passchendaele—can read a revealing insight into the goings-on behind the scenes before, during and after that campaign. A new book—

—Tempestuous Journey—by Frank Owen—brings to light some shocking facts about the fiasco. The book is a life of Lloyd George and discussions of the very controversial British prime minister had with Canada's Sir Robert Borden feature in the story of how Field Marshal Haig and Chief of the General Staff Sir William Robertson persisted with one of the biggest military blunders while Lloyd George was powerless to dismiss them.

Reyburn

NEWS OF ANOTHER PRIME MINISTER—Sir Winston Churchill... TV will be covering Churchill Day (his 80th birthday, on November 30) and the cameras will be trained on such ceremonies as Sir Winston meeting with MPs and peers at Westminster and receiving his commemorative birthday gifts. But on that day, will the BBC be able to achieve something that has so far never been done on television—will they be able to get Churchill into the studios for a special telecast?

His appearances so far have merely been the result of television covering functions at which he has been present. When he talks to the nation, he has always chosen the medium of radio. Eden, Attlee and other top political men have gone before the TV cameras. But never Churchill. He is no great TV fan. There isn't a set at 10 Downing Street. The set in his home is seldom used by him.

The BBC is hoping to make November 30 the date of the first-ever TV speech by the top orator of them all.

British TV viewers are still talking about seeing the masterly way he delivered that wonderful crack during his Tory conference speech—"Eighteen months ago Stalin died... of that we can be certain."

EMINENT BRITISH PHYSICIAN Sir Adolphe Abrahams has devoted much of his life in the study of health in relation to athletics. And he has some revolutionary things to say on the matter. Says he: "The man who carefully watches his diet, eats red meat and cuts out starchy food is wasting his time. You can smoke, you can drink and you can lounge late in bed and still go out and smash a world record. It does not matter what you eat as long as you enjoy it and get sufficient of it. The effect of smoking in moderation is practically nil—Chataway regularly smokes ten a day. Early to bed and early to rise is nonsense. If you get up early your vitality will be low and your activity reduced."

SHOWTALK... After just a few weeks at London's Cambridge Theatre, Bernie Braden's play, "No News From Father," is no longer among the list of shows on in town... The flames around the stage at which Ingrid Bergman is burned nightly at the Rossellini-directed stage version of "Joan of Arc" haven't set London on fire; the show is doing its best to carry on after a wholesale panning by the critics... Quote from Bob Hope: "Bing Crosby hasn't made up his mind about TV—he doesn't know whether to go on it or buy it."... Londoners now have a name for that curvaceous Italian screen star—they're calling her Gina (The Frontispiece) Lollobrigida.

Mountbatten May Visit Canada For Defense Talks

MONTREAL (BUP)—Admiral Earl Mountbatten will make a trip to Canada one of the first things on his schedule when he becomes Britain's first sea lord, the man he will succeed said here today.

Admiral of the Fleet Sir Rhoderick McGregor, 61-year-old Royal Navy chief of staff who retires next March, said he was "quite positive" his successor would come to this country for defense talks "as one of the first things after he takes over."

Mountbatten is an uncle of Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh. He already has made several trips to this country and was speculated on as a future governor-general of Canada until the Canadian government decided to name native-born Canadians to that position.

Announcing A NEW MOTOR OIL

that in effect adds Octanes to gasoline!

NEW
boosts engine power and gasoline mileage

There is documented proof that New Mobiloil Special actually boosts engine power. In hundreds of cars, New Mobiloil Special reduced the octane requirement of every type of engine tested—giving the same results in raising gasoline performance as adding octanes to the fuel in your gas tank.

By raising efficiency and cutting waste, New Mobiloil Special also increases gas mileage and adds years to the life of any engine!

After just two crankcase changes, this new kind of motor oil has given engines—which "knocked" badly before—new-car pep and knock-free power.

It corrected or relieved pre-ignition "ping" and spark plug misfiring.

New Mobiloil Special cleaned up engines of all ages and kept them clean as no other oil ever has before.

It reduced rate of corrosive and mechanical wear to practically zero.

It provided instant starts in sub-zero cold and complete protection at abnormally high temperatures.

This single oil is recommended for use in any climate, any season, in place of SAE 30—20W-20 and 10W. It also replaces 5W in areas where temperatures do not consistently go lower than 15° below zero (in which case Mobiloil 5W should be used).

Change to New Mobiloil Special... it's like adding octanes to your gasoline!

A great new member of the Mobiloil family...

OVER PLANE

Russia Rejects Protest

TOKYO (AP)—U.S. air force officers charged Monday that two Soviet MiGs swept 20 miles beyond a demarcation line to within less than three miles of Japan's coast while shooting down their RB-29 Sunday off northeast Hokkaido. Ten men parachuted to safety while an 11th who baled out was drowned.

The photo-mapping plane had guns which it did not use in retaliation but the RB-29 group commander solemnly warned that all his planes would shoot back if attacked in the future.

The incident drew a strong protest to Moscow from the United States against the attack "over Japanese territory," coupled with demands for "moral and material reparations."

Russia, in a note delivered to the U.S. embassy in Moscow Monday night, charged the U.S. plane was violating Soviet frontiers and had opened fire first on two Soviet fighters.

No arrests were made. Police officer G. P. Hobson, who talked with the three men, said the complaint will be referred to the city attorney's office for any possible action.

KISSING WIFE
Marks was at the airport to catch a plane. Kaye and Dukoff had just arrived from New York City. Hobson said Marks complained that as he was kissing his wife good-bye Dukoff approached and ordered him to move his car to make room for an automobile waiting to pick up Kaye and Dukoff.

An argument and fight ensued.

Council decided Monday night to take the petition despite Police Chief Walter Mulligan's warning that the later hours would mean more trouble for his department.

Doctor Charges Danny Kaye Beat Him Up

Airport Scene Of Alleged Fight

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A doctor complained to police that he was beaten by actor Danny Kaye and another man during an argument Sunday night outside the Los Angeles International Airport terminal.

A complaint was signed at a police station by Dr. Roland Marks, 51, who lives in suburban Rolling Hills. He said Kaye gripped him with a headlock while the actor's business manager, Edward Dukoff, 45, struck him in the ribs. He asserted that Kaye and Dukoff also beat him on the head.

No arrests were made. Police officer G. P. Hobson, who talked with the three men, said the complaint will be referred to the city attorney's office for any possible action.

Jean Arthur Sick; Opening of Play Postponed Week

CHICAGO (UP)—The first night performance of the play, "Saint Joan," was postponed for a week 30 minutes before curtain time Monday night because the star, Jean Arthur, was too "jittery and sick."

Playgoers were already milling about in the lobby of the Great Northern Theatre when the "no performance" signs went up.

The new opening date was set for next Monday after Robert Whitehead of the Producers' Theatre, the play's sponsor, talked with Miss Arthur by long-distance telephone from Wilmington, Del.

Junior Chamber To Underwrite Driver Lessons

Low-Cost Course For Teenagers

A driving course for approximately 30 high school students in the Greater Victoria area will start later this month sponsored by the Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce, it was announced today.

The course, part of the Jaycees' program of traffic safety, will include a minimum of 24 hours' instruction, eight hours behind the wheel of a dual control car. In addition, 12 sessions of lectures and films will be shown on driver education.

Completion of the course, which will take four or five months, will qualify students for a driver's license and a special diploma.

Any student in the area over 16 years of age can qualify for the course providing consent of parents is obtained and physical requirements met.

Fee will be $10, the balance of the cost being born by profits from the B.C. Products Fair.

Application forms are available at the chamber office, 816 Wharf Street, and must be returned by November 18.

Crosby's Wife Left $1.3 Million Estate

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Bing Crosby's wife, Dixie Lee, left a gross estate of $1,332,571.36 but debts, taxes, administration expenses and fees will make the net $550,616.96.

A report on the estate was made Monday by the state inheritance tax appraiser. Mrs. Crosby's estate consists of her separate property plus an interest in the community property which she and her husband accumulated during their marriage. She died Nov. 1, 1952, at the age of 40.

Her will left to Bing her interest in their homes in Pebble Beach, Calif., and Hayden Lake, Idaho, and it directed that the rest be set up in two trusts to provide for members of the family.

Vancouver Police Force Unhappy, Claims Writer

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Vancouver Province says Chief Constable Walter Mulligan's hard-fisted administration is creating discontent in the city's 723-man police force.

In a byline article by veteran reporter Doug Leiterman, the Province says men of all ranks in the force cite favoritism and too-strict discipline as among causes of discontent which, if widespread, could impair morale and efficiency of law enforcement.

Chief Mulligan, also questioned by Leiterman, said that "except for the malcontents you find anywhere," the force has high morale.

Efficiency of the force has been under fire here in recent weeks following disclosure of wide-spread fake lottery operations and a mounting crime wave that has brought three bank holdups in the last five days and two unsolved slayings since mid-September.

Leiterman says that talks with men on the beat, senior officers and police union officials brought forth the following general grievances:

"To get promoted, the men allege, you have to be a personal favorite of the chief. There is no scientific system of personal rating."

"The men dislike being paraded before the chief for minor offenses like being late for work . . . and claim there is too much emphasis on saluting."

"Chief Mulligan can break a man any time he wants, or put him on the blacklist, so he'll never get promoted."

"The chief interferes in marital and other affairs of the men."

The Province says the grievances are held at least partly responsible for 26 resignations, including officers with more than 10 years' service, from the force within the last year.

Mulligan, youngest chief constable in the history of the force when he was named to the post in 1947 at the age of 42, said his rule of promotion was ability. "If a man cuts the mustard he gets the job."

CHIEF WOULD PLACE CURB ON BINGO

VANCOUVER (CP) — Chief Constable Walter Mulligan said Monday he will submit a report to the police commission Friday on the operation of bingo games in Vancouver.

The chief said the report will be a follow-up of an extensive report submitted to the commission last May. He added that he told the commission some time ago that he thought bingo games in the city were out of hand and that steps should be taken to curb them.

According to one report, bingo has grown in recent years to the point where a gross of more than $500,000 is not uncommon.

Bingo is legal under current city regulations, with proceeds above the cost of operation going to charity.

Social Assistance Blamed For Hampering Drug Fight

VANCOUVER (CP) — Police war on drug addicts and pushers is being hampered by the city's method of allotting social assistance, chief constable Walter Mulligan said Monday.

A 14-man drug detail, strengthened by 10 constables from the uniformed branch during the week-end, hopes to stamp out violent crime as well as drug addiction.

Members of the narcotics squad blame social service agencies for keeping known addicts in circulation.

"If we can't get them on drug charges, we can usually book them for vagrancy," said one detective.

"Most of them have no jobs, but when we try to book them on a vagrancy charge, they tell us they are receiving social assistance from the city. That leaves us up against a blank wall."

Kills Own Son Saving Life of Other Child

DARTMOUTH, N.S. (BUP) — Gillis MacPherson saved the life of a child Monday when he swerved his truck into a ditch at nearby Eastern Passage, but his own six-year-old son was killed when the truck overturned.

IT'S MY VIEW

By BILL WALKER, Sports Editor

The week-end in review:

Alex "Seabiscuit" Kaleta, must have got the shock of his hockey career when he was dropped by the Saskatoon Quakers over the week-end. The veteran of many NHL and WHL wars has been around professionally since 1941 except for a stint in the Armed Forces. His best NHL year was in 1945-46 when he hit the 20-goal circle with Chicago after barely missing with 19 the previous season. During his three-year tenure in the WHL, which may not be at an end, other clubs possibly being interested, he compiled a record that few can match with 82, 83, and 72 points respectively the past three seasons.

Walker

The rumor department tells it that coach Doug Bentley of the Quakers was trying to deal off Kaleta and Doug Adam (then on loan to the Canucks) to the Canucks for rights to defenseman Lou Fontana, now with the New York Rangers. When Vancouver said "uh, uh," Saskatoon replied: "We won't let you slide down our cellar door either—give us back Doug Adam." The fact that Adam scored five goals against the Quakers in the 'Canuck' last two games in Saskatoon is only co-incidental.

Coach Billy Reay of the Cougars has gone on record, almost, in predicting that the lofty heights of the WHL leadership are not long for the New Westminster Royals to enjoy. Said Reay: "They (the Royals) should finish last." Work it out, even giving the Quakers the benefit of the doubt by using book records, and you'll find that the Quakers average about 28 years of age per man. . . . John Pickburn who will match kicks with Al Pollard of the B.C. Lions at the Armistice Day benefit soccer program in Vancouver isn't taking any chances apparently. He called Monday to ask where he could borrow a Canadian Football. Our advice is for John to match Pollard from a dead-foot stance.

If it wasn't so before the advent of television, it must be so now. The pro footballers really put on a show and the old charges that they loafed on occasions have fallen by the wayside. Once in front of the video cameras they're not performing only for the home crowd, but for the gang back at Podunk U. who used to root them home in their college days. Television isn't hurting attendance either, reports have it. Crowds have been showing an increase the past two seasons and this year could be the biggest yet. The officials are well drilled and one only needs to know the signs to follow the play. Video viewers are seldom, if ever, left in the lurch. . . . Pass that Ginger Ale, will you?

Then there's the yarn which Chet Smith of NEA tells so well.

It happened in football when Dr. Clarence Spears was coaching at Minnesota. Spears had a halfback on his club who could run like the wind that blows in that neck of the woods. As the freshman squad had played no outside games the previous year, Spears figured he had a real "sleeper" to throw against the Gophers' traditional foes, Northwestern. He kept his ace out of the first game so he could be turned loose against the Wildcats. However, on the Wednesday pre-game the team's scheduled departure Thursday, Spears received a call from the dean informing him that the phenom had been declared ineligible for cutting classes.

Spears called the lad to his office and asked for an explanation. The boy replied: "I'm real sorry. But you see I've never been in Chicago. And as I didn't own a pocket, I didn't want to go to a big city like that without one. So I took the afternoon off and went downtown and bought two real pretty ones."

(P.S. And now the word is that WHI, president Al Leader may mix the Quakers' bid for Adam. This ruling is not quite clear in our minds, but there is a clause in the constitution that prohibits a player from returning to a club once he has been expelled with that club and is subsequently transferred to another club.)

CONFIDENCE VOTE

Stukus to Stay As Lions' Coach

VANCOUVER, B.C. (BUP)—The board of directors of the British Columbia Lions Monday night gave Annis Stukus a unanimous vote of confidence as coach of the west coast entry in the Western Interprovincial Football Union for the 1955-56 season.

BOMBERS STILL CONFIDENT

WINNIPEG (CP)—Winnipeg Blue Bombers have their backs to the wall, but they're not conceding a thing. "We should have been one up. Now we've got to take two straight," said coach Al Sherman, whose Bombers dropped a 9-3 decision to Edmonton Eskimos in the first game of the best-of-three Western Interprovincial Football Union final at Edmonton Saturday night.

Second game is at Winnipeg Stadium Thursday afternoon 2 p.m. CST—and it's a must for the Bombers. A loss means Eskimos will go into the Grey Cup sudden-death semi-final against the Ontario Rugby Football Union champions at the home of the western winner Nov. 20. If Bombers win Thursday, the third and deciding game will be played in Edmonton Saturday night.

Congressional Investigation Of Boxing Urged by Ex-Prexy

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UP)—A former president of the National Boxing Association says he will ask Congress to investigate the sport to help weed out a criminal element and to revive small clubs across the nation.

George Barton, NBA president for 1952-53 and Minnesota boxing commissioner for the last 12 years, said Monday boxing needs a national commissioner "of the stature of J. Edgar Hoover to clean up the sport." Barton said he will go to Washington early next year to seek a congressional investigation of the International Boxing Club, which controls most major fights, and of the International boxing manager guild.

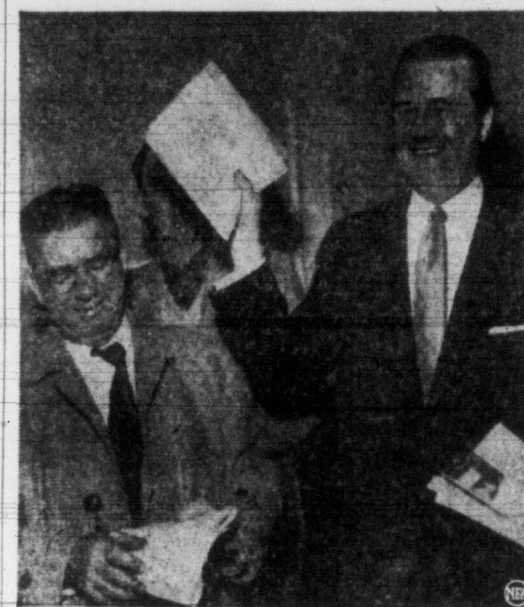

Barton, a Minneapolis Tribune columnist, said his only thought in seeking the federal investigation "is the maintenance of decency in a sport whose welfare I have at heart."

All other professional sports "already are honest or have been cleaned up," Barton said. "They've even got all the

Kansas City Could Be Majors' Last Outpost

NEW YORK (UP)—Kansas City, a rip-roaring frontier town in covered wagon days, became the last western outpost of major league baseball today—perhaps for years to come.

The movement of the Philadelphia Athletics franchise to Kansas City Monday was expected to bring stabilization to the major leagues. It was the third switch of a franchise within two years after more than a half century in which the baseball map was undisturbed. But when Kansas City took over the distressed franchise of the Athletics, it also became apparent that any further moves for the time being were out of the question.

In the first place, no other city seeking major league recognition, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Dallas, Houston, Minneapolis and St. Paul, Toronto or Montreal, is ready with the proper facilities.

In the second place, there is now no major league team which has undergone such financial setbacks as the Boston Braves of two years ago, the St. Louis Browns of last year, or the Philadelphia Athletics of the just completed 1954 season.

Thus, the other ambitious cities will have to wait. In the meantime it was up to Arnold Johnson, 47-year-old Chicago millionaire, to convince the people of Kansas City he had done right by them in bringing the sad last place Athletics franchise in their midst.

It appeared his task would be easy—at first. The town went wild and there were specific indications that he would have no trouble filling up the ball park which he plans to double in capacity from 17,500 to 35,000 by opening day in April. The combat hero of Second World War, a naval lieutenant commander, also sized up yesterday as "the happiest day of my life after the toughest fight I've ever been in."

He sponsored a resolution at the last meeting of the NBA, in Detroit, urging federal control of boxing, but was turned down. He charged that the main opponents of his plan were boxing commissioners who had taken office with widely publicized pledges to "clean up" the sport.

Meager Suffers Skull Fracture

MONTREAL (BUP)—Little Paul Meager, often described as the gamest guy in hockey, suffered a skull fracture in Boston Sunday and will be lost to the Montreal Canadiens for at least six weeks.

The speedy five-foot seven-inch right-winger was operated on last night for removal of bone fragments from the right temporal region of his head. The surgery was performed by Dr. Harold Elliott at the central division of Montreal General Hospital.

QUEEN ENGLAND'S TOP RACE HORSE OWNER

LONDON (AP)—Queen Elizabeth achieved a pet ambition Monday — she topped the list of British winning race horse owners for the 1954 flat race season. No reigning monarch has turned the trick in a full season before.

The Queen's stable of 24 horses won $114,000. Next was American owner Robert Sterling Clark, whose British stables raked in $109,000.

The Queen's biggest 1954 winner was the four-year-old colt Aureole, sired by Hyperion out of Angolola. He won $84,000.

Clark's biggest winner was Never Say Die, which won both the Epsom Derby and the Doncaster St. Leger, Britain's top two classics.

CLIPPERS EXTEND LEAD

Paget Spark In Navy Win

Nanaimo 5, Drake Hotel 4
Navy 2, C & C Taxi 1
By RON COULTER

He isn't the smoothest skater or the classiest stick-handler in the Vancouver Island Amateur Hockey League. But Navy defenseman Len Paget was the big wheel Monday night at Memorial Arena.

Paget figured in Navy's first goal and then scored the second as the vastly improved Tars came from behind with two third-period markers to nip C & C Taxi, 2-1, and vault into a second-place deadlock with Drake Hotel.

In the second contest of a two-game card, front-running Nanaimo Clippers boosted their lead by skating to a well-deserved 5-4 victory over Hotelmen.

Navy's win was the club's second successive victory after getting away to a poor start this season.

Given protection such as befits a goalkeeper, Fred Currah came up with a solid performance and thwarted Taximen forwards on several occasions. In the opposing nets, George Hall toiled just as relentlessly but was the victim of a weak defense.

Drakes' inability to clear the puck quickly out of their zone was the major stumbling block in their cause, although Nanaimo out-skated and out-hustled them throughout.

Taximen lead After a scoreless and scrambling first period, Taximen struck for a goal at 5:09 of the second session when Del Brown beat Currah on a long shot to put Taximen one up on Navy.

Navy pressed continually and were finally rewarded at 11:26 of the third canto when Orville Coulter threw a pass from John Merryfield and Paget to beat Hall cleanly with a high shot to the corner.

With Gus MacCarthy and Bill Helgeson sitting out penalties for fighting, Paget drove a bullet shot to the right top corner at 17:50 and Navy finished the contest pressing for another goal.

PLENSKY GETS TWO

Lawrence Plensky got the first of his two goals at 7:53 of the first period on a screen shot to give Nanaimo an early lead over Drakes.

However, Norm Kowalsky was left clear in front of Hodgson and evened the count at 1:08 of the second frame and Art Green sped down the left boards, his shot catching the left corner, to put Drakes in front, 2-1.

Before the second period had ended Clippers moved back into the lead, 4-3. Lawrence Plensky got his second goal on an unassisted effort. Don Plefky notched the go-ahead goal just over one minute later and Joe Zuback put Clippers two goals up at 13:16.

Green got his second of three goals at 14:07 as his shot was stopped by Hodgson but went in the net off a defender's skate.

Zuback scored Nanaimo's fifth goal by slapping the puck past a sprawling Hamilton, and Green concluded scoring by beating Hodgson at 18:50 of the third period.

NEW YORK—Kenny Lane, 137, Muskegon, Mich., outpointed Orlando Zulueta, 136, Cuba (U).

Jockey Bares Details Of Race-Fix Attempt

TORONTO (BUP)—The Ontario Racing Commission opened an inquiry at Dufferin Park today into jockey Hank Williams' charge that gamblers offered him a bribe to "fix" a race last Saturday.

The commission called veteran rider Ray Powers to appear, and members said "five to seven" riders would be questioned. Chairman S. Tupper Elgelow, a magistrate, had already interrogated at least half a dozen jockeys.

Williams was reported to have been threatened after the race. He didn't ride Monday, and was escorted home by security police Monday night.

City Women Learn to Squeeze All Value Out of Meat Dollar

Approximately 500 persons Monday attended demonstrations of the B.C. Meat Forum in the Sirocco, learning how to get the most from the meat dollar.

Demonstrations are being held again today, at 2 p.m. and 8 p.m.

The forum was opened by Agriculture Minister Kenneth Kiernan and master of ceremonies was Gordon Landon, director of extension, B.C. department of agriculture.

Meat used in the interesting program was donated by B.C. Beef Cattle Growers' Association, B.C. Sheep Breeders' Association and B.C. Swine Breeders' Association.

Commentator Vic Pinchin said that all meat, regardless of price, contains the same quality of nutritious proteins.

Mrs. Nova Graham of the B.C. Electric Home Service Centre, assisted by Dorothy McMahon and Miss Joan Lalley, gave a cooking demonstration. She emphasized that meat should always be kept in the coldest part of the refrigerator, outer wrappings being removed before storage.

Fresh meat can be kept five or six days, ground meat two days and internal organs not more than two days, she said.

Contrary to popular belief, cooked meats should be tightly covered, and meat was not adversely affected by putting it hot into the refrigerator.

"Paper bag" cookery is a good method to use on a tough cut, Mrs. Graham said. Inside of a paper bag is thoroughly greased, the meat put in, and the bag sealed and placed seam side up on a rack in the roasting pan. She recommended this method for cooking fowl.

Meat should not be boiled. Cold water should be added to the meat and brought to a simmer without bubbles breaking on the surface.

At the end of Monday's demonstrations, door prizes of meat cuts were distributed.

Unemployment Picture Bleak

VANCOUVER (CP)—J. I. Chambers, city social service administrator, told council Monday night that no workable plan is in sight to alleviate unemployment here this winter.

"Public works are not feasible in British Columbia where winter weather would shut them down anyway," said Mr. Chambers in reporting on Labor Minister Lyle Wicks' plans to hold a meeting shortly with B.C. employers to seek a solution to the problem.

Premier Bennett has also asked the Union of B.C. Municipalities for a list of public works projects that would help cope with unemployment.

Ald. J. W. Cornett said such suggestions might take care of the city's unemployed, but would not help with relief money for workers who come from outside the province.

In other business, council was told by town-planner Gerald Sutton that the city's proposed $8,000,000 auditorium would probably lose money, especially in the first years of operation. The auditorium has not yet been designed.

COMOX—American-manufactured Neptune medium bombers will join RCAF maritime reconnaissance squadrons here and at Greenwood, N.S., according to an Ottawa announcement.

Number and cost of the twin-engine rocket-carrying Neptunes, that have a range of 4,700 miles, has not been divulged, but it is believed the order is for 25 planes to cost $35,000,000. They will supplement the Lancasters now doing the job.

The move is part of a $250,000,000 overhaul of navy and RCAF anti-submarine operations.

Qualicum School Enrolment Reveals Growth of District

QUALICUM BEACH—Steady growth of the district's population is reflected in increase of school enrolment from 960 to 1,017 according to the annual report of School District 69 (Qualicum).

The report has been presented at local ratepayers' meetings in the area by secretary James White.

To take care of this expansion the board has had to build several one-room schools and one-room additions to existing buildings. Additional expansion, including a gymnasium-auditorium, and several rooms for industrial arts and other purposes, has been made in each of the high schools at Qualicum Beach and Parksville.

Enrolment by schools is as follows: Parksville elementary, 178; Parksville Junior high school, 137; Qualicum Beach elementary, 123; Qualicum Beach Junior-senior high school, 263; Hilliers elementary, 21; Little Qualicum elementary, 71; Bowser elementary, 85; Errington elementary, 36; French Creek (Coombs) elementary, 70.

Employed by the board are 66 persons, including 46 teachers, 13 janitors, three bus drivers, a secretary-treasurer and assistant and two part-time stenographers in the two high schools. While a one-room addition to the French Creek School is being completed, Grades 5 and 6 are attending classes at Qualicum Beach under their own teacher, Mrs. F. Reddyhoff. A similar group of Grades 5 and 6 students from Nanossee is being accommodated in Parksville Junior High School pending completion of the addition to the Nanossee school building.

Three buses are operated by the board and two additional buses are on contract from Parksville, with one taxi feeder service operating in the Deep Bay-Bowser area.

Amateur Thieves Raid Drug Store

CHEMAINUS—Clement's Drug Store was broken into this week, but thieves, who gained access to the building through a window at the rear of the store, left empty handed.

The culprits' ripped off a heavy mesh wire window cover and smashed the window, entering through the store display.

In an attempt to open a cash register, the amateur thieves only managed to jam the machine. Nothing of value appeared to be taken.

The attempted robbery was discovered by the owner when he opened the store. RCMP believe that noisy passers-by may have frightened the would-be robbers away.

BETWEEN TIMES

By MONTE ROBERTS

It is distressing to note the number of unhappy marriages which exist in this day and age.

I have given a great deal of thought to this matter, and am now able to state, unequivocally, the trouble lies with the female half of the marriage partnership.

The trouble is, females are not properly trained to be wives.

Before females are allowed to accept an engagement ring, let alone approach the altar, they should be subjected to aptitude tests.

After all, no employer in his right mind would accept a new member to his staff without prior approval from the personnel department, which, of course, gives the applicant an aptitude test.

Thus, when a man decides to add a member to his staff, he should follow the modern methods of business procedure, and make sure she can measure up to the standards required.

To make sure his intended is fit to be his wife, a man should require her to pass the following aptitude test.

1. Sew a fine seam, a very fine seam; tat, knit, crochet, embroider, darn, crossstitch, hemstitch, overstitch; understitch; hant, ruche, plait; and other essential arts with the needle.

2. (a) prepare a roast, stew, squab under glass, bread, doughnuts, fillet mignon, rack of lamb, clam frappe, chicken chow mein, breast of grouse saute chasseur, and roast suckling pig (with apple).

2. (b) Do above without straining food budget.

2. (c) Do above while children are screaming for piece of bread and butter with brown sugar.

3. Use feather duster, broom, and dustpan; wash clothes in small basin, wring out by hand, and hang on line which you have personally rigged; scrub, wax and polish floors; get cobwebs off ceiling and pick up (a) children's toys (b) husband's pipe ashes (c) dog's bones (d) you.

4. Make sure the furnace is in good working order (if you have a furnace); chop down tree to provide kindling for same; shovel in coal; shake down ashes to retain all burnable clinkers; smile sweetly at husband when he (a) says "Cripes, it's too hot here," or (b) "Cripes, it's too cold here."

5. When husband arrives home on time for dinner (for once) with unexpected and important guest in tow, appear at door in dinner dress, complete with make-up, every hair in place, children safely stashed away, table set with candles gleaming, and nothing but joy in your heart.

If all females were compelled to pass such an aptitude test, there would be fewer unhappy marriages. Because any female equal to this test would be worthy of her husband.

At some future date, we may discuss the sheworthiness of husbands.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES

"He hit me twice on the nose and once on the head with a beer bottle," said Jean Medler, 640 Speed, in city police court today when Stanley D. Medler pleaded guilty to assault. Magistrate H. C. Hall remanded the accused to Friday for sentence.

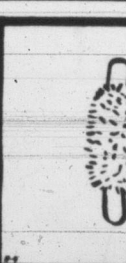

A. C. L. Warner, general passenger agent of the CNR in Vancouver, visited Victoria Monday to attend the funeral of Harry Bowman, former MLA and CNR official.

Norma Lewis, no fixed address, was remanded to Friday for sentence in city court today after she pleaded guilty to buying $72.04 worth of shoes and purses at Fashion Bootery, 1117 Douglas, with a worthless cheque. The shopping spree took place November 5.

At about 8 p.m. Monday night, motorist Robert J. Luney, 1531 Atholene, collided with a car at the Douglas and Cormorant intersection. He immediately reversed and backed into another car.

120 Endorse Protestant League Policy on RC School Aid

Firm opposition to B.C. government aid in financing Roman Catholic parochial schools was recorded by 120 persons at a public meeting Monday night in Central Baptist Church.

The meeting was arranged by Canadian Protestant League's Victoria branch. Dr. J. B. Rowell, branch president, sponsored the resolution. Seconded was G. W. Parsons.

INTOLERANCE SCORED

The resolution recommended "that no government financial aid be given to the parochial schools of the Roman church while she holds and teaches principles of intolerance" to those of other faiths.

Also part of the resolution was an expression of determination "until such time as the Roman church officially repudiates and abrogates all . . . intolerance as contained in her ecclesiastical law."

Canadian Protestant League says it is a public organization open to all, and that it is not the adjunct of any Protestant church.

The league has actively opposed Roman Catholic efforts to induce changes in current law, which forbids direct government contribution to parochial schools of any denomination.

Five Roman Catholic bishops led by Archbishop W. M. Duke, recently asked the B.C. cabinet for such financial aid, claiming among other things, that the existing ban is, in effect, double-taxing of B.C. Roman Catholics.

Counter-arguments were presented to the cabinet a few days later by a Canadian Protestant League delegation. Dr. Rowell was spokesman for this delegation, taking over at the last moment when the delegation's chairman was delayed at Vancouver.

RESOLUTION TEXT

Here is the text of the Canadian Protestant League resolution, together with its explanatory preamble:

INJURED CLIMBER CLUNG TO TINY LEDGE

40 Terrible Hours on Mountain

"I never met a braver man." That is how 16-year-old Leo Lynn of Alberni described Charles E. Faulkner, 936 Fullerton, Victoria, who spent over 40 hours on a narrow ledge overlooking a 250-foot precipice on Mount Arrowsmith, with a smashed bone in his leg sticking through the skin.

Leo and Ulf Bitterlich were the first rescuers to reach Faulkner, who fell and broke his leg on the slopes of the mountain Sunday afternoon. The two men were unable to do anything for the injured climber due to lack of equipment.

Leo was injured by a bouncing rock just as he reached Faulkner, but spent the night comforting the injured man.

The wind was howling and it was cold and lonely up there, but Faulkner never let out a whimper," he said.

"I looked at his leg and he just smiled and said it was all right. He was cold and shivering, and there was little we could do to help him.

"He was certainly glad to see us and we were just as glad to see him. The poor fellow had hardly enough room to move his leg. He was only a foot away from the precipice."

"During the night it rained and rocks came tumbling down from above but none hit us. It was weird up there, alone with a helpless man."

Lynn said Ulf Bitterlich poured a bottle of mercurchrome on the wounded man's leg and covered it with gauze. Then he put a blanket between his legs and wrapped a triangular bandage around him.

"I left in the morning because of the wound to my head," Leo said. "It turned out it wasn't nearly as bad as I thought. But I was lucky I didn't fall down the cliff because I saw stars for a moment and didn't know if I was going to fall."

Leo praised Ulf Bitterlich for his work. Bitterlich has taken part in several other alpine rescue parties and has a thorough knowledge of Mount Arrowsmith.

Three City Officers Appointed To Militia Group HQ Staff

Transfer of three officers of the Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's) from their regiment to 25 Militia Group Headquarters at Bay Street Armoury was announced today.

Transferred will be Majors Eric A. Stewart and A. M. MacLeod, to retain that rank, and Capt. H. Angus Davie, promoted from lieutenant.

Maj. A. E. Smart of HQ says establishment of the new Island militia unit will be completed by the end of this month.

Commander will be Lieut. Col. Larry S. Henderson, DSO, an overseas commander of the Scottish "Fighting First" of the Second World War.

Maj. Stewart will take over the job of administration officer. Maj. MacLeod will be training officer and Capt. Davie will be transport co-ordinator. Maj. Stewart joined the Scottish as a private in the NPAM of 1921. He gained his commission in 1934 and enlisted with "Dog" Company of the Scottish as a lieutenant at the outbreak of the Second World War. Maj. Stewart was the Scottish, who with rank of captain throughout their overseas stay and received his majority in 1945.

Maj. MacLeod enlisted in the ranks with the Calgary Highlanders in 1939. He went overseas in 1940 and was returned here to train officers at Gordon Head with the rank of lieutenant for a year. On returning overseas, Maj. MacLeod rejoined the Calgary unit, but in mid-1943 was transferred to the PPCLI and served with the rank of captain throughout the Italian and Northwest Europe campaigns. He received his majority a little over two years ago.

Capt. Davie is a veteran of the RCAF of the Second World War. He was an air force cadet before the war and joined the Canadian Scottish reserve as a private after the war. He got his commission in 1951. Capt. Davie is credited with doing fine work in the development of the Scottish Cadet Corps in the post-war years. He is second-in-command. "I sincerely hope this new appointment will not mean we will lose his valuable services," said Capt. Dudley Stephens, cadet corps commander.

Two Victoria lads were reported among a group of five youngsters who fled Boys' Industrial School at Coquitlam Monday. One was 17 and one 12.

Hudson's Bay Chickens Don't Need Egging On

A chicken that has found the answer to easy living is still drawing big crowds at the Douglas Room on the Hudson's Bay Company third floor.

"Casey at the Bat" made her first appearance Saturday in a Douglas Street show window of the HBC.

What she does is play a pin-ball machine that requires no money, yet pays off at the feed-box with corn. From a special cage she can grab a rubber worm that closes a switch, thus causing a baseball bat to knock a baseball across a miniature diamond.

If it hits one of the tiny players there is no payoff. But if it goes to the back of the "field," another switch is closed that delivers a grain of corn for Casey.

"Casey" actually is four hens, and they spell one another off at the plate.

HBC officials say they are thriving, and laying eggs steadily. The display is set on a stage, with steps giving access for children to have a good view. The game will be here until Saturday afternoon.

Cartage Men's Vote Count Next Week

Decision of local cartage men on whether to call a strike on demands for a new working agreement will be known next Tuesday.

Robert Milliken, business agent for Local 884, General Teamsters and Warehousemen's Union (AFL-TLC), said today envelopes will be opened then on a ballot by mail.

There are 160 truckers of six city cartage firms involved.

The union rejected a conciliation officer's recommendation for settlement of a dispute over a new working agreement.

The cartage firms made another offer on which the vote by mail was ordered.

Details of the new offer have not been disclosed.

$2,500 Bail Set In Assault Case

Bail of $2,500 was set in Saanich police court today for Patrick R. Mullen, 654 Gorge Road West, who was charged last week with indecent assault.

Mullen elected for preliminary hearing through counsel, J. J. Proudfoot. The case was remanded to November 18.

Saanich prosecutor, Lloyd McKenzie had asked Magistrate H. C. Hall to set bail at $3,000 but the magistrate ruled for the lesser figure. Mr. Proudfoot told the court that he thought $2,000 would be the most his client could raise.

The Dickens Fellowship will meet at 800 St. Charles Street at 8 p.m. next Monday.

Beaten Sailor's Parents Arrive From Ontario

Lorne Pashe, 20, HMCS Ontario rating who was found beaten and robbed in an alleyway early Sunday, is reported in satisfactory condition at RCN hospital at noon.

Naval authorities said the youth's home is at Schreiber, Ontario. His parents arrived here Monday following early reports that he was placed on the hospital "danger" list when first admitted.

Police investigations into the incident are still incomplete. Stolen from the youth were his sports shirt, suede jacket and gold wrist watch.

Cossack Chorus, Danilova Ballet Both on Tonight

City entertainment tonight will range from Russian dances to esthetic ballet numbers as two internationally famed groups of artists present performances.

General Platoff's Don Cossack chorus and dancers perform at 8.15 tonight in the auditorium of Central Junior High School, while Alexandra Danilova, considered to have one of the most extensive repertoires in the ballet world, will be with her company at the Royal Victoria starting at 8.30.

Both groups will be here tonight only.

Ticket sale for the Kiwanis-sponsored Don Cossacks has been excellent, although there will be a few tickets available at the auditorium. It is the first visit of the world-renowned chorus to Victoria in many years.

With Danilova will be Roman Jasinsky and Moscelyne Larkin of the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo, and Michael Maule of the New York City ballet.

Tickets for the ballet also will be available at the Royal box office after 7 p.m.

Father of Three Students Seeks School Board Seat

William H. Williams, truck driver, 2912 Quadra Street, today announced his candidature for one of the two Victoria seats on the Greater Victoria School Board.

Mr. Williams, 40, father of three school-age children, was an unsuccessful candidate for a school board seat in the election last December.

After announcing his intention last January to try again in a by-election resulting from the resignation of Austin Curtis, he withdrew at the last moment in order that Mr. Curtis would resume his seat by acclamation. Mr. Williams said he did so in order that the city might be spared the $500 cost of staging an extra election.

Born in Victoria, Mr. Williams was educated in the public schools here. He served during the Second World War in the army.

Mr. Williams' decision to come out for school board indicates a three-way race in that division.

Trustee Mrs. D. P. W. Maunsell already has announced her intention to seek re-election, and Mrs. Doris Loughheed, library-board member, has indicated she is contemplating filing nomination papers as well.

Carter Asks Re-Election

Police Commissioner Gordon Carter announced today his intention to seek re-election to the police board in the December elections.

Mr. Carter, who is completing his first term said: "I feel that during the two years I've had on the commission, I've come to have a good understanding of the work of the

Government Request Met By Cutting Room Sizes

Greater Victoria School Board has slashed more than $50,000 from its school building program by revising plans in accordance with instructions issued last week by the department of education.

Instead of a $3,407,215 referendum, coming before ratepayers, as was indicated earlier, the revised scheme will come in at about $3,357,715—less than the 1953 program of $3,390,000 which was turned down.

School board officials were meeting with heads of the department of education's planning department this afternoon. They were submitting revised plans for three schools, which the department had asked be modified.

THREE SCHOOLS

The plans in question concern a proposed six-room elementary school on Gordon Head; a proposed eight-room school for Macaulay Point, and a four-room addition planned for View Royal elementary.

Biggest saving has been made by redrawing plans for a six-room Gordon Head school, planned for the corner of Kenmore Avenue and Torquay Drive.

Smaller classrooms, in keeping with the department's new maximum size of 24 by 40 feet, including cloakroom space, and smaller activity room, has cut about $40,000 off the original estimated cost.

At Macaulay School, a $9,000

Trainmen Escape in Island Derailment

Flat Car Turns Over, Trucks Torn From Box Car Five Miles From Duncan

Train crew escaped in a derailment on the E & N Railway five miles north of Duncan early today which did heavy damage.

Two cars of a northbound night freight train jumped the tracks and about 1,000 yards of ties were chewed up before a loaded boxcar jack-knifed at a switch point and stopped the train.

Trucks were torn off the boxcar and a following flatcar, loaded with lumber, turned over.

Work gangs and a large crane were rushed to the scene and had the track cleared later in the morning.

HORSEMEN HERE ON ELK LAKE TRACK PLAN

Another step towards building a race track at Elk Lake, proposed by William Lochhead, Vancouver, president of the West Coast Horsemen's Association, and associates, was taken today when Mr. Lochhead met with Victoria's mayor to talk over exact track boundaries of the 80-acre site.

Also present at the meeting was Alderman Geoffrey Edgewood.

ASK THE TIMES

Q.—Where is the Crown Prince of Japan at the present time?—G.M.S.

A.—The only recent mention of Akhito in the news of the day was two or three weeks ago, when reports from Tokyo said it was expected his engagement to marry would soon be announced. The lack of other reference to him is taken to mean he is in Tokyo. Akhito was in Victoria April 11 and 12, 1953, while traveling to London for the Coronation. He traveled by train across Canada and visited Ottawa before embarking for England.

Q.—How long is it since the U.S. liner America, Capt. George Fried, rescued the crew of the Italian freighter Florida in the Atlantic?—A.L.F.

A.—The 32 men were rescued on the night of Jan. 23, 1929, 800 miles east of the Virginia Capes.

is nothing new in this view," said Archbishop Roy of Quebec, in re-stating the non-participation rule. He recognized that the ruling had not always been adhered to at various times in different parts of Canada where participation with other denominations has seemed necessary.

CRUEL INTOLERANCE

(d) Since we would not support government aid to communistic organizations, because of the principles by which they are governed, neither could we support government aid to the parochial schools of the Roman Church whose principles express cruel intolerance towards those of other faiths, and Protestants in particular. The authoritative statement reads: "Nevertheless it is a Catholic tenet that the church may justly inflict on heretics the penalty of death . . . There is no graver offence than heresy owing to the harm it does to the Christian state, and therefore it must be rooted out with fire and sword." (Institutions of Public Ecclesiastical Law, by the modern canonist, Father Marianus De Luca, S.J., with the approval of Francis M. Carini, provincial of the Roman Province, S.J. Dated at Rome, 1900.)

AID OPPOSED

"Therefore be it resolved that we, members and adherents of the Victoria branch of the Canadian Protestant League, assembled in public meeting in Victoria, B.C., Nov. 8, 1954, do hereby place ourselves on record as recommending that no government financial aid be given to the parochial schools of the Roman Church while she holds and teaches such principles of intolerance as the foregoing; and that we maintain our present attitude in relation to this question until such time as the Roman Church officially repudiates and abrogates all her principles of intolerance towards those of other faiths, as contained in her ecclesiastical law."

New Idea in Hasty Notes Gives Recipes, Not Verses

By PENNY SAVER

Instead of merely sending a few words of greeting, why not include a little something the recipient can use? I'm not suggesting you send a gift, when all that is necessary is a card, but I am suggesting that you send one of the new hasty notes, which includes the recipe of some tasty dish, instead of the usual verse or design. A brand new idea, it is, and there are several types to choose from... and many, many different recipes. Recipe is on front and inside there is plenty of room for your message.

Swedish kitchen notes were the first to catch my eye. Combined with quaint Swedish kitchen scenes in bright colors are fascinating recipes that require just a glance to make your mouth water and your hands itch to get busy and bake them to see if they taste as well as they look in print!

Apple cake, spritz cookies, Swedish biscuits and Swedish rusks are a very few of the recipes in the set. Each of the 20 notes has one recipe on it and the set sells for $1.35.

Another set that interested me was one entitled "New England Notes." The recipe part is separate from the card this time. It folds in half and slips into a slot with the words "Especially for You." Here again you have lots of space for writing inside the card.

As for the recipes... well, I very nearly drooled at the mere sight of them. There's apple pan dowdy... cranberry conserve... Boston baked beans... old fashioned molasses cookies... caraway cream cookies... oh, there are many more, too, but I couldn't begin to list them all. Price for a set of 16. New England notes is $1.25.

I seem to be leaning towards imports from Sweden today... here's another idea from that far-away country.

It's a tiny brass garden tool... for keeping your indoor plants in order! With everyone keen on planters right now, this little gadget should sell very well.

It has a miniature shovel on one end and a rake on the other and sells at the reasonable price of 65 pennies.

Children Won't Cure Marital Unhappiness

By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK, PhD

Many people believe that children are the solution to difficulties between husbands and wives. That is rarely the case, as the woman who wrote the following letter emphasizes. She says:

(Q)—"I have been married for nearly seven years. The first 4½ years were very happy; but for the past two years things have been going from bad to worse for me. My husband quarrels and calls me names on the slightest provocation. He gets angry if I won't answer back, but I was always taught that it takes two to make a quarrel. Some of my friends say maybe he behaves this way because we have no children. But children solve few problems. What can I do to make my marriage happy again?"

(A)—You must find out why your husband has changed so radically in the past two years. Has he had business or financial worries? Does he have problems with his own family that are disturbing him?

Has he ever given you reason to feel that he is disappointed because he has no children? If so, has he ever suggested that you consult a doctor or that he would do likewise? Has he ever mentioned the possibility of adopting a child?

Until you can discover what is back of your husband's irritability, you can make no headway in stopping it. Surely he will give you a clue to the trouble if you ask him or if you have your minister talk to him about his problems.

You are certainly right in saying that children solve no problems. Even if your husband's changed attitude comes entirely from disappointment over not having children, he would still find fault if he had any.

By this I mean that he fails to meet his problems by going to their sources and trying to improve things. Instead, he fights or blames others. He would continue to do this if you had a child. If he didn't criticize you, he would criticize the child.

Cloverdale—A panel discussion on "PTA's From the Parents' Viewpoint," a companion piece to last month's discussion on the teacher's viewpoint, will be held Wednesday at meeting of Cloverdale PTA in the school auditorium. Final plans will be made for the Fun Fair to be held Nov. 19 in the school.

WHY GROW OLD?

We Must Change Our Minds To Keep Up With the World

"Minds are like parachutes; they only function when they are open."—Thomas R. Dewar.

Closed minds are as fatal as closed parachutes. The person who always has to be right, the one who feels that no ideas except his own have merit, is doing himself a great injustice. Usually people like this expect everyone to believe what they believed 20 or 30 years ago.

Often this attitude comes from a feeling of insecurity and therefore a fear of the new and a clinging to the old. I do not mean to indicate that there are not many qualities in the past to which we should cling. There is integrity and honor, courage and simple kindness. I am not speaking of these.

The world changes and we must change with it to some degree if we are to get the most out of living. Every age, historically and individually, has its hazards and its benefits. If you have a closed mind you do not tap the benefits, and might as well be in a dead spot in a theatre.

Open up your mind and float gently down to earth; this earth as it is today. It is a pretty wonderful place even with its rush and worry, problems and hectic circumstance. The old familiar ingredients are still here, as they always will be, but there are also breezes of mental and emotional stimulation which you will experience, if you once open up your mind and heart.

Look at yourself! Are you carrying about a lot of mental dead weight because it has seemed easier and safer that way? Every intelligent person knows that today we must again emphasize some of the values which have been forgotten in modern days. We know that it is essential for us to believe in something bigger than ourselves. Call it whatever you wish; faith, God, love or the forces of life. There must be something unless the individual life is to become stagnant.

More than anything else, perhaps, the loss of the family unit as a close, warm and stabilizing force, has been responsible for juvenile delinquency. No matter how fine their intentions, many parents have been at fault here. They have closed their minds to the modern problems of their children, insisting that the problems of their children are no different from those they themselves had at the same age.

This just isn't so, and when a parent takes this attitude, the teen-ager either tries to figure everything out for himself, because he cannot talk at home, or he talks to someone. Often they write to me!

Local Council of Women Studies Canada's Legislature and Courts

Continuing their study of civic rights, members of the Local Council of Women heard talks on how laws are made in the community, province and Dominion, and how our laws are maintained and interpreted by those in charge. Mrs. E. E. Livesey presided at the meeting in the music room of the Public Library, Monday afternoon. Miss E. Hart was study chairman.

First speaker, Mrs. A. J. Butterfield, said "Today laws are giving more and more people the opportunity to boss us around."

She explained that, although we elect many of our lawmakers, there are also many who are appointed by them to commissions and boards and who, at their discretion, must make the laws concerning such minor questions as highways and lands.

"In Canada we have followed the United States rather than Great Britain in the great number of boards and commissions appointed," she said.

In making suggestions how we might give power to the government, yet still maintain control, Mrs. Butterfield suggested it be compulsory that all regulations made be published, so people can know exactly what the laws of our country are.

The procedure in getting a law passed, the theory of what the legislature is supposed to do and the traditional functions of the legislature were explained by the speaker.

"This is an age of experts," she said, "and we need hundreds of them to keep modern civilization running."

Second speaker of the afternoon was Mrs. I. Williams, daughter of Magistrate Hall, who is herself, a qualified lawyer.

In speaking on the subject, "Courts and Their Functions," Mrs. Williams told how courts and parliament tie in together.

In doing so, she explained that, after an act is passed in parliament, the courts must interpret that act, and if parliament does not like the interpretation, it amends.

Mrs. Williams explained the functions of the courts in Canada, from the informal small debts court to the supreme court.

"There are still gaps, however," Mrs. Williams said, "and the law is constantly changing to fill those gaps."

"Courts are open to all who believe they have suffered an injustice . . . all they have to do is prove it," she concluded.

It was decided at the meeting to sponsor a play of the Little Theatre, "My Three Angels," on December 8. President, Mrs. Livesey will place a memorial day wreath on the Cenotaph on behalf of the Local Council of Women.

Book Week, November 19 to 26, was announced. Mrs. Grace Morrow is selling United Nations Children's Fund Christmas cards to members of the council.

Frustration Is the Bugbear Of Machine Age, Club Told

Thor Hansen, acknowledged expert on Canadian arts and crafts, told members of the Women's Canadian Club, Monday afternoon, that frustration can be blamed for most of the world's ills. "Before the machine age, man was compelled to make everything he needed by the work of his hands," Mr. Hansen explained. "Today, there is no need to be so creative. Is it any wonder then, that people are frustrated?"

As there is no way back, the speaker pointed out, and as no one really wishes to go back, then we must take care of the lack of creative imagination in our working day—through our spare time.

Mr. Hansen quoted a prominent mental health doctor as saying that if people would go back to using their hands, mental illness could be cut by 50 per cent. "Man cannot live without satisfying his fundamental urge for beauty," Mr. Hansen said, as he presented arts and crafts in relation to mental health, culture and the nation's economy. "Gardens and basement workshops are the greatest blessing of the 20th century businessman," he said.

Mr. Hansen is art director of the public relations department of the British American Oil Company.

Troubles of Carrier Pilots Outlined to City GYRO Club

Pilots ditching in the sea in Sea Fury aircraft have to get out fast, Lieut.-Cmdr. R. W. J. Cocks, CO VS881 (Avenger Sqdn.), HMCS Magnificent, told members of the Victoria GYRO Club Monday.

"What about when an Avenger has to ditch?" a member asked.

"Oh, you've lots of time then," came the reply, "an Avenger won't sink for about two minutes."

This and other little known facts came to light when Lieut.-Cmdr. Cocks discussed Victoria radio station CJVI has applied to the CBC Board of Governors at Ottawa for permission to recapitalize Island Broadcasting Co. Ltd., from 1,000 common shares to 1,000 common and 2,000 preferred, and to issue 496 preferred shares.

Victoria Chamber of Commerce directors will hold their monthly meeting Friday, Nov. 19, at a noon luncheon in the Empress Hotel.

Early start on a new hall and Sunday school which St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church proposes to erect adjoining the church on Courtney Street is indicated. Architect Charles E. Craig, after a conference with the building committee headed by Douglas Lidstone, has instructions to proceed with the working drawings.

Civic affairs group of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce will meet Monday, November 15, at a noon luncheon in the Pacific Club.

Among items slated for discussion is May 24 celebrations.

Mayor-Hume Gets NPA Support for Re-Election Try

VANCOUVER (BUP)—Mayor Fred Hume has received the unanimous backing of the Non-Partisan Association to run in the December civic elections, it was reported today.

Former Mayor George Miller will join present Aldermen Earle Adams, Bill Ogg and Birt Showler on the NPA slate for council seats.

Alderman Syd Bowman withdrew from this year's aldermanic race because of a property qualification dispute.

Pupils Blown Out Windows As Gas Blast Rocks School

ALLEN, Okla. (AP)—A remorseful superintendent, credited with heroism by his students, accepted responsibility for striking the match which accidentally touched off a deafening gas explosion at Allen High School Monday injuring himself, the principal and 45 pupils.

Three of the injured, including principal Freeman Pickle, are reported in critical condition. Twenty were still in hospital today. The one-story brick school building was extensively damaged.

The superintendent, J. N. McKeel, who suffered shock, cuts and bruises, told a reporter: "I presume I set off the blast in an attempt on my part to find a gas leak. I had no reason to think there was a general leak."

Students were flung against the ceiling and blown through windows by the bomb-like blast.

ON A-PLAN ISSUE

Russia Warned Of Veto Loss

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UP)—The United Nations main political committee began its third day of debate today on President Eisenhower's "atoms-for-peace" plan with Russia on notice it would enjoy no veto if it decides to join the plan.

Sweden, Cuba, Pakistan and Peru were scheduled to make their views known today.

Soviet delegate Andrei Y. Vishinsky raised the veto issue Monday when he asked U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. why the international atomic security council (in which the energy agency to be set up "big five" has veto power.)

would be responsible to the General Assembly as well as the Security Council.

"Previously," he said, "it had been expressly noted that the agency was to report to the Security Council" (in which the energy agency to be set up "big five" has veto power.)

VICTORIANS DODGE NEEDLE; BLOOD SCARCE

Victoria failed by more than half of the first-day quota to fulfill Red Cross blood bank needs Monday. Only 128 pints were collected and the goal for the three-day clinic was 900.

The mobile clinic is at present at Red Cross House, 1046 Fort Street.

Collections were slated to continue between 1.30 and 4.30 p.m. and 7 and 9.30 p.m. today and Wednesday.

Hundreds Attend Harry Bowman Rites

Hundreds attended funeral service Monday for the late Henry Robson Bowman, former B.C. minister of agriculture who died last Friday.

The chapel at Sands Funeral Home was overflowing with friends and former government colleagues. Health and Welfare Minister Eric Martin and Agriculture Minister Kenneth Klerman represented the provincial government.

Also present were deputy agriculture minister William MacGillivray, former deputy W. H. Robertson and other department officials.

Former premier Byron I. Johnson, public utilities commission chairman Percy E. George, William Straith and Senator Mrs. Nancy Hodges also attended.

Mr. Bowman, who died in Royal Jubilee Hospital, was 53. He was elected to the B.C. Legislature in 1949, and acted as minister of agriculture until 1952.

Murder Suspect, Convict Sought In Vancouver

Banks Increase Guards as Crime Wave Heightens; Chief Under Fire

Compiled From CP-BUP Dispatches
VANCOUVER—A dark-haired man was sought by police today for questioning concerning the savage slaying of a former Edmonton printer, also a "very dangerous" escaped convict from Essondale mental hospital, a suspect in two recent holdups.

Search for the wanted man started Monday night after police were told he had been seen recently with 47-year-old Robert D. Hopkins, whose body was found in his home earlier Monday.

The victim's body was found sprawled on the floor of the neat two-room home where he lived alone in suburban South Vancouver. Blood from a bullet wound in the head covered his face and an electric light cord was wrapped tightly about his neck, while his ankles were bound with neckties.

Employees of the Vancouver Herald, where Hopkins worked, told police they had seen a man, described only as dark-haired, with Hopkins on a number of occasions recently. They said he had also borrowed a small sum of money from the slain man.

KILLED FRIDAY

The slaying was discovered by Herald employees who were investigating Hopkins' absence from work for three days. Police said they believed he was murdered Friday.

Meanwhile, May Hopkins, an Edmonton schoolteacher and sister of the dead man, arrived here by air from the Alberta capital Monday night to assist police in their investigations and supervise funeral arrangements.

Police said the motive for the slaying appeared to be robbery. They found no wallet or money on the body and drawers and cupboards were ransacked. But the brutality of the slaying, said officials, indicated there might be an as yet undiscovered motive.

Fellow workers said Hopkins led a quiet life, was friendly and congenial and had no known enemies.

Emergency measures will be taken at all local banks today while police battle the worst crime wave in city history which has left one murder, an attempted slaying, three bank holdups and several small robberies in its wake.

However, a high police spokesman said he could not expect any more of the holdups, believed carried out by drug addicts to get more money for narcotics.

Several major banks were to double their guards, but police were doubtful whether the increased number of guards would deter gunmen from robbing small banks on the outskirts of the city.

The Vancouver Police Commission, headed by Mayor Fred Hume, has ordered Police Chief Walter Mulligan to submit a report outlining methods he is using to combat the crime wave.

Meanwhile, a jittery gunman, believed to be the 31-year-old convict who escaped from Essondale Oct. 14 while being transferred from the B.C. penitenti-

CHURCHILL SORRY SUPER BOMBS WERE EVER DEVELOPED

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill said today it would have been a good thing if the atom and hydrogen bomb had never been developed, but rejected a Labor member's suggestion that he use his influence to get other powers to quit testing the bombs.

"I don't think it would be within my power to make a decision of that kind," he told the House of Commons. "I am sure it would have been a very good thing if none of these things had been discovered at all. But at this stage their discovery should be arrested, and with what advantage to which particular nation experimenting in them, is a much more complicated question to decide."

Churchill, who was asked to say whether he would support a motion to ban atomic and hydrogen bombs, escaped with between $2,000 and $3,000 from a downtown branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia Tuesday. It was the third robbery within five days in the Vancouver area. The others, at the Canadian Bank of Commerce in Sapperton, and the Bank of Toronto here, netted gunmen about $8,000.

Detectors, assigned to the holdup squad, said the same man probably was responsible for the Bank of Toronto and Bank of Nova Scotia holdups. Further investigations into the murder attempt on ex-convict William Semeniuk, have drawn a blank, police said. Two men caught in the area in which Semeniuk was shot, were released after the 54-year-old painter refused to identify his attackers.

Climber Saved From Ledge, Rescuers Start Trek Down

HON. GEORGE C. MARLER ALBERT LAVIGNE CLAUDE RICHARDSON

Retain Cabinet Ministers' Seats

In Tuesday's federal by-elections Liberals won four of the six seats. Transport Minister Marler had no trouble getting elected in the Montreal riding of St. Antoine-Westmount, a seat held by former finance minister Douglas C. Abbott. Lavigne, deputy reeve of Cornwall township, won a close election in Stormont, Ont., to take the seat formally held by Lionel Chevrier who resigned as transport minister to become head of the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority. Richardson, an insurance man, won election in St. Lawrence-St. George, which elected former defense minister Brooke Claxton for several years until he resigned to become an insurance company executive. Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent said in one of the tersest statements in his political career that the Liberal victories "were very satisfactory." He added that the result in York West, where a Conservative retained the traditionally Tory seat "was hardly surprising." He did not comment on the outcome in Selkirk, Manitoba, where veteran CCF candidate William Bryce captured the previously Liberal seat. (See Page 2 for election roundup.)

Employment Outlook Not Bad Says PM

St. Laurent Disagrees With TLC Delegation Over Prospects for Coming Winter

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent said today the government does not think this winter's unemployment will reach last season's post-war high.

He told a Trades and Labor Congress of Canada delegation he disagrees with a TLC prediction of higher unemployment, adding that "there are indications that make us feel it will not be realized."

The TLC's suggestion of increasing unemployment was made in its annual brief to the government, presented today to about a dozen ministers, in which it proposed a five-point program.

"We are as concerned as you are about unemployment," Mr. St. Laurent replied, "but I don't think we agree with your expectation that it is apt to be more severe than last year."

Declaring there is a prospect this winter's unemployment will be well above the postwar record figures of last winter, the TLC said its concern has become sharper since it was indicated recently that Parliament will not convene until after Christmas.

Its submission, presented for the first time by newly-elected President Claude Jodoin of Montreal, called for these measures to hold down unemployment:

1. Enactment of "anti-dumping" legislation to "stop the importation of goods which are ordinarily produced in Canada."

2. A program of public works to include projects "planned for the purpose of producing employment."

3. Encouragement to the construction industry to provide maximum employment during the cold weather months when construction normally slows.

4. Encouragement to the planning of spending by governments at all levels—federal, provincial and municipal.

5. Establishment of an advisory committee on seasonal unemployment, to include labor representation.

The congress said it lays particular stress on the anti-dumping recommendation, saying imports from cheap markets have caused unfair competition and resulted in layoffs of workers.

"To prohibit such imports is not to restrict trade in any ordinary sense," it said. "Such imports . . . serve to dislocate our own productive activities. In fact, in these we are not importing cheap goods but rather expensive unemployment."

Fighter Planes May Convoy U.S. Aircraft

Staff Chiefs Study Question—Dulles

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. is considering giving fighter escorts to American aircraft which fly near Communist territory, State Secretary Dulles disclosed today.

Dulles told a press conference the question is being studied by the joint chiefs of staff.

He noted that the pilot of the RB-29 photographic plane shot down by Soviet fighters over Japanese waters Sunday had authority to shoot back, but did not do so.

Dulles said this was one of those hairline decisions on which people might make different judgment afterwards.

That was the case also with Ambassador Charles Bohlen and his decision to attend a Soviet party in Moscow Sunday night following the plane incident, Dulles said.

The ambassador's attendance at the party had been criticized by Senators William Knowland (Rep., Calif.) and Senator Bridges (Rep., N.H.) just before Dulles' meeting with news-papern.

Dulles also declared Russia's claim that the RB-29 fired first is a falsehood. The significant thing, he added, is that the Soviet government felt it necessary to justify the shooting down of the plane.

Injured Victorian 40 Hours on Mountain

Seriously injured Victoria climber, Charles E. Faulkner, Jr., was removed by rescue workers early today from a rock ledge on the high, windswept slopes of Mount Arrowsmith.

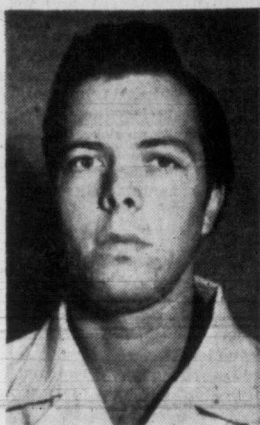

It is expected he will be brought out to hospital by tonight, but much will depend on weather conditions which are hampering the speed of the rescue work.

An exhausted rescue party is slowly bringing the 22-year-old mountaineer down the treacherous, icy, mountain slope to a "base camp" where he can receive medical treatment.

Faulkner is reported to be in severe pain from a compound fracture of the right leg and suffering from exposure. He spent more than 40 hours alone on a narrow ledge, exposed to bitter cold, wind and rain.

RCMP officers said Faulkner may be flown out from the base camp by helicopter if weather conditions at the mountain improved before the end of the day. Foul weather prevented a helicopter from taking off to the accident scene Monday.

The base camp where Faulkner is being transported is near the scene of a recent RCAF crash in which four men died.

BRIAN SAUNDERS

Injured Man Numb With Cold

Early this morning, rescue workers, using ropes, managed to reach the helpless climber lying since Sunday afternoon on a narrow ledge overlooking a 250-foot precipice. He was numb with cold and could speak only faintly.

Rescuers hauled Faulkner up to a ridge with great difficulty. He was tied to a stretcher and the rescue party began its descent to base camp where medical aid was waiting.

Radio reports from base camp said the descent of the rescue party was slow due to the mountain slope being covered with slippery snow and ice. In some places it covered loose rock, easily dislodged.

A slip could have meant death to the members of the party hundreds of feet below in a rocky chasm. The cold winds also hampered the party in its efforts.

A rescue attempt Monday failed due to foggy weather and lack of adequate equipment.

Today's rescue was accomplished by having teams of volunteers bring food and equipment to the base camp to equip the rescue party. The volunteers include men from Alberni as well as RCAF personnel.

The RCMP is in charge of the operation.

The accident occurred Sunday afternoon. Faulkner, accompanied by Brian Saunders of Metochin; Carl Borge, 23, of Brentwood, and Borge's younger brother, John, began ascending the mountain early Sunday morning.

The Borge brothers decided to return home when they neared the summit of the mountain because they were improperly shod and lacked necessary equipment to make the last leg to the peak.

But Faulkner and Saunders decided they would make the attempt up the steep icy slope which was partly covered with snow.

Saunders described the last climb as slow and dangerous.

"I saw Faulkner working himself around a narrow ledge which was apparently covered with ice," said Saunders. "Then he slipped and fell 20 feet below on a snow slope."

"I heard him yell 'I've broken my leg.' He began to slide slowly towards the edge of a 250-foot precipice. I thought he was going over for sure. It was like a nightmare. He was within about a foot of the edge when he stopped."

Saunders believes it was Faulkner's broken leg which saved him. It was bent underneath him and caused enough friction on the snow to stop him from sliding further onto the rocks below.

Saunders was unable to remove the injured man so tied him with a piece of nylon rope to the ledge and made him as comfortable as possible. He then left to get aid.

Saunders got lost on the way down the mountain. He slipped twice and narrowly escaped serious injuries. He was completely exhausted when he informed RCMP headquarters at Alberni of the accident. His two other companions, the Borge brothers, were unaware of the accident when they reached the foot of the mountain.

Peace River gas and oil shares became active in late stock market trading at Vancouver today following unconfirmed reports a contract has been signed for the delivery of 200,000,000 cubic feet per day of B.C. natural gas at the U.S. border.

The financial district rumor is that Pacific Northwest Pipeline Co. will purchase the B.C. gas from Westcoast Transmission at 34 cents a thousands F.O.B. the international boundary.

If the report is true, it will mean early construction of the proposed $130,000,000 Westcoast Transmission pipeline from the Peace River to Vancouver.

Gun Lands Globetrotter in Jail

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (BUP)—A Harlem Globetrotters basketball player was in jail today and the team's referee and manager were questioned by Royal Canadian Mounted Police in a dispute over a gun registered in the United States but imported illegally into Canada.

James Garner, 24, of Kansas City, Mo., was lodged in the Niagara Falls jail after customs officers said he told them wrongly that he had expressed the gun to his United States home.

Arsenal Beaten 2-1 By Russian Eleven

LONDON (CP)—Moscow The London team isn't the power it once was in England soccer and today's loss didn't come as a surprise.

However, the Spartak team is expected to have a much tougher time in a game Nov. 16 against Wolverhampton Wanderers, leaders of the English League First Division.

Spartak came with a rush early in the second half and centre forward Nikita Simonian put the Russians ahead with a header in the 50th minute from a high centre by Anatoly Ilin.

Murder Suspect, Convict Sought In Vancouver

Banks Increase Guards as Crime
Wave Heightens; Chief Under Fire

Compiled From CP-BUP Dispatches
VANCOUVER—A dark-haired man was sought by police today for questioning concerning the savage slaying of a former Edmonton printer, also a "very dangerous" escaped convict from Essondale mental hospital, a suspect in two recent holdups.

Search for the wanted man started Monday night after police were told he had been seen recently with 47-year-old Robert D. Hopkins, whose body was found in his home earlier Monday.

The victim's body was found sprawled on the floor of the neat two-room home where he lived alone in suburban South Vancouver. Blood from a bullet wound in the head covered his face and an electric light cord was wrapped tightly about his neck, while his ankles were bound with neckties.

Employees of the Vancouver Herald, where Hopkins worked, told police they had seen a man, described only as dark-haired, with Hopkins on a number of occasions recently. They said he had also borrowed a small sum of money from the slain man.

KILLED FRIDAY
The slaying was discovered by Herald employees who were investigating Hopkins' absence (Continued on Page 12)

Fighter Planes May Convoy U.S. Aircraft

Staff Chiefs Study
Question—Dulles

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. is considering giving fighter escorts to American aircraft which fly near Communist territory, State Secretary Dulles disclosed today.

Dulles told a press conference the question is being studied by the joint chiefs of staff. He noted that the pilot of the RB-29 photographic plane shot down by Soviet fighters over Japanese waters Sunday had authority to shoot back, but did not do so.

Dulles said this was one of those hairline decisions on which people might make different judgment afterwards. That was the case also with Ambassador Charles Bohlen and his decision to attend a Soviet party in Moscow Sunday night following the plane incident, Dulles said.

Dulles also declared Russia's claim that the RB-29 fired first is a falsehood. The significant thing, he added, is that the Soviet government felt it necessary to justify the shooting down of the plane.

Employment Outlook Not Bad Says PM

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent said today the government does not think this winter's unemployment will reach last season's post-war high.

He told a Trades and Labor Congress of Canada delegation he disagrees with a TLC prediction of higher unemployment, adding that "there are indications that make us feel it will not be realized."

The TLC's suggestion of increasing unemployment was made in its annual brief to the government, presented today to about a dozen ministers, in which it proposed a five-point program.

"We are as concerned as you are about unemployment," Mr. St. Laurent replied, "but I don't think we agree with your expectation that it is apt to be more severe than last year."

Declaring there is a prospect this winter's unemployment will be well above the postwar record figures of last winter, the TLC said its concern has become sharper since it was indicated recently that Parliament will not convene until after Christmas.

SETS DOWN PROGRESS
Its submission, presented for the first time by newly-elected President Claude Jodoin of Montreal, called for these measures to hold down unemployment:

1. Enactment of "anti-dumping" legislation to "stop the importation of goods which are ordinarily produced in Canada."
2. A program of public works to include projects "planned for the purpose of producing employment in such conditions as now confront us."
3. Encouragement to the construction industry to provide maximum employment during the cold weather months when construction normally slows.

Injured Alpinist Spends 40 Hours on Mountain

Seriously injured Victoria climber, Charles E. Faulkner, Jr., was removed by rescue workers early today from a rock ledge on the high, windswept slopes of Mount Arrowsmith.

It is expected he will be brought out to hospital by tonight, but much will depend on weather conditions which are hampering the speed of the rescue work.

An exhausted rescue party is slowly bringing the 22-year-old mountaineer down the treacherous, icy, mountain slope to a "base camp" where he can receive medical treatment.

Faulkner is reported to be in severe pain from a compound fracture of the right leg and suffering from exposure. He spent more than 40 hours alone on a narrow ledge, exposed to bitter cold, wind and rain.

RCMP officers said Faulkner may be flown out from the base camp by helicopter if weather conditions at the mountain improved before the end of the day. Foul weather prevented a helicopter from taking off to the accident scene Monday.

The base camp where Faulkner is being transported is near the scene of a recent RCAF crash in which four men died.

Injured Man Numb With Cold

Early this morning, rescue workers, using ropes, managed to reach the helpless climber lying since Sunday afternoon on a narrow ledge overlooking a 250-foot precipice. He was numb with cold and could speak only faintly.

Rescuers hauled Faulkner up to a ridge with great difficulty. He was tied to a stretcher and the rescue party began its descent to base camp where medical aid was waiting. Radio reports from base camp said the descent of the rescue party was slow due to the mountain slope being covered with slippery snow and ice. In some places it covered loose rock, easily dislodged.

A slip could have meant death to the members of the party hundreds of feet below in a rocky chasm. The cold winds also hampered the party in its efforts. A rescue attempt Monday failed due to foggy weather and lack of adequate equipment.

Today's rescue was accomplished by having teams of volunteers bring food and equipment to the base camp to equip the rescue party. The volunteers include men from Alberni as well as RCAF personnel.

The RCMP is in charge of the operation. The accident occurred Sunday (See Lynn Story, Page 13.)

The Borge brothers decided to return home when they neared the summit of the mountain because they were improperly shod and lacked necessary equipment to make the last leg to the peak.

But Faulkner and Saunders decided they would make the attempt up the steep icy slope which was partly covered with snow. Saunders described the last climb as slow and dangerous.

"I saw Faulkner working himself around a narrow ledge which was apparently covered with ice," said Saunders. "Then he slipped and fell 20 feet below on a snow slope."

"I heard him yell 'I've broken my leg.' He began to slide slowly towards the edge of a 250-foot precipice. I thought he was going over for sure. It was like a nightmare. He was within about a foot of the edge when he stopped."

Saunders believes it was Faulkner's broken leg which (Continued on Page 12)
